Mayor, Solons Debate Practice For Making Reports to Council

City Council and Mayor Richard Gerhardt locked horns during a 2-hour 20-minute session Tuesday over the mayor's practice of making reports for various department heads.

Council has asked City Solicitor O. Charles Hosterman to request the city's police and fire chiefs and other department heads to report directly to council.

Hosterman, at the direction of Council President Joseph Bell, read a section of state statute which says the mayor, directors and other officers shall attend meetings of the legislative authority of the city when specifically requested and answer at such time questions put to them by any member of such legislative authority.

Hosterman stated it was his opinion that if council asked for a direct report, the heads of the department must give them. He further stated he would seek court action to force the reports if not given.

BELL then asked the department heads for their reports. Safety Director Robert Adkins informed them his report on the crosswalk improvements was presented to each councilman before the session in a diagram with an accompanying explanation.

He asked council to direct questions at him if there was something about the recommendation they did not understand.

Police Chief Robert Temple and Fire Chief Bernard Wolfe both stated they were accountable to their mayor and the safety director and would not make their reports directly to council unless ordered to do so by their immediate superiors.

Both said they were ready to answer any questions of council. None were asked.

At this point in the meeting, Adkins informed council that he felt the matter of reports was administrative and a matter of mechanics between the mayor and council.

"I don't want Bob Temple or Bernard Wolfe to be embarrassed by council's request," Adkins said, indicating the two chiefs were following the directives of the mayor.

Hosterman said it was not the intention of council to embarrass the chiefs, but said he would mandamus them into court if necessary.

"IT is a matter of law that these people shall answer the questions of Council. If they do not, we will take them to court," Hosterman said.

Councilman Robert Turner and David Crawford both assured Adkins that council had never embarrassed the department heads with questions and did not intend to ask any embarrassing questions.

Councilman Noble Barr entered the discussion on council floor, stating, "I think it's time we realize that we have to get together."

"Monday the mayor moved a lady into the office in the city building and made the statement he didn't care what council said," Barr pointed out the move was made in spite of the feeling of council that the post of service department clerk should be maintained at the service department on E. Ohio and should be held by a man.

"Ordinances should be written specifically where people work and what work they should perform," Barr stated.

When the mayor had his turn on the floor, he began by saying, "It seems I have become the focal point of quite a bit of discussion. I don't like to be misquoted. It would be foolhardy to say I don't care what council says."

"I HAVE no objection to council asking questions, and the department heads will answer them if they have the answers. We are not trying to hide anything from council."

"In fact, we feel we are giving Council more information (Continued on Page 2)

are mutually agreeable with council and Elsea Inc. and to permit sewer service to allow the expansion of 170 trailer units.

The mayor and Public Utilities Manager Ervin Leist explained the proposal would not be an overload on existing lines.

In his third recommendation, the mayor asked that a joint mayor-council planning committee for annexation of areas to the city be formed. He proposed the committee be composed of three or more members of council, the Mayor, the service director, the utilities manager and the chairman of the planning and zoning commission.

TWO appointments were announced by Mayor Gerhardt last night. They were Harold Anderson to the city park board and Walter Yamrick to the planning and zoning commission.

The petition to close the alley east of The Herald Building and the Marathon Service Station was referred to the safety committee. The petition was submitted by The Herald to allow for future expansion of the printing plant.

Leist informed council that Roy Hawks, veteran sewer plant operator, had submitted his notice of retirement effective May 15. Leist also noted (Continued on Page 2)

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Selective Service Headquarters Wednesday issued a gross induction call for March calling for 3,612 men to report in order to reach a net induction of 2,171 for the month.

Pickaway County's draft call for March has been set at 18 men.

The net call of men for March compares to 1,293 for February this year, and 451 for March of last year, reflecting the stepped up manpower needs.

The induction call by counties: Allen 50, Athens 29, Auglaize 30, Clinton 10, Defiance 15, Fairfield 50, Fayette 17, Greene 34, Highland 6, Hocking 16, Madison 2, Mercer 17, Paulding 12, Perry 15, Putnam 14, Ross 8, Van Wert 13, Warren 33.

Chillicothe architect Gene Swartz told Pickaway County Commissioners and members of the Child Welfare Board Tuesday it would take over $140,000 to remodel the children's home.

The third architect to look at the building since the commissioners were informed it was a fire and health hazard early last summer, Swartz' estimate is the highest presented yet for remodeling.

The other architects were Ralph Crooks of Lancaster and David Adams of Columbus. Both men told commissioners it was economically unfeasible to remodel the home to meet requirements of the state building and health code.

Swartz' estimate did not include repairs to the roof of the 66-year-old building or new furnishings, if needed.

HE also told them there would always be a certain amount of maintenance required for the old building which would not be needed for the new building.

After the rather lengthy session yesterday, the commissioners and Child Welfare Board members appeared no nearer a solution to the problem than they were a year ago when the board asked a ballot for construction of a new home be placed on the ballot for the November election.

The Child Welfare Board members maintained their position that remodeling the present home would be an unsound economy and that the antiquated building, although spacious, would still not meet their needs.

He estimated the cost of new floors, new ceiling and new coverings for the walls at $80 to $90,000. Other estimates of specific areas of repair were:

According to Swartz his recommended repairs would put the old building in A-1 condition.

Soviet Embassy Hit By Bomb Explosion

Canada May Bar Flights By B52 Jets

Expect Demand
In Negotiations
On NORAD Pact

OTTAWA (AP) — The Canadian government may ask the United States to discontinue flights of H-bomb planes over Canada as part of its price for remaining in the North American Air Defense Command, qualified informants said today.

The current 10-year NORAD agreement between Canada and the United States expires in May and negotiations on a renewal have begun.

Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson told the House of Commons Feb. 13 that his government has already indicated that it intends to continue cooperation with the United States in continental air defense. He did not refer specifically to NORAD, however.

Canadian defense officials say there is no need for patrols of nuclear bombers in the missile age. This happens to be the avowed Russian view as well, and the Soviet Union protested such flights after the crash Jan. 21 of an American B52 off Thule, Greenland, in which four hydrogen bombs were lost.

Canadian officials say the United States has more than enough nuclear missiles in underground silos and aboard submarines to destroy Russia.

They contend that the nuclear bomber patrols, designed to prevent the nuclear strike force being caught on the ground by a surprise attack, serve now only to complicate East-West relations.

Kirk Back To Handle School Fight

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Gov. Claude Kirk returned from California today amid criticism because he was out of state during a teacher walkout that has kept more than a half million pupils out of class.

"I will go into the county as I always do and break the core. That is to say, I will go to Miami," the governor said. Kirk has said the source of the dispute is in the state's bigger cities.

The governor took note of criticism about his six-day absence from the state. "I can handle my job by telephone," Kirk said. "Is it true that I have to be there hourly. Do you think the phones don't work in California?" Does President Johnson have to be in Vietnam to handle the situation in Vietnam?" Kirk said.

The GOP platform committee showdown was indicated in a report by Washington Post writer David S. Broder that Republican governors have decided to demand that Pennsylvania Gov. Raymond P. Shafer be named co-chairman.

Dirksen—whom the governors fear would not produce a moderate stand on issues—has indicated he would agree to Shafer as the committee's vice chairman but not as its co-chairman.

Romney Predicts He'll Beat Nixon; McCarthy on Stump

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Michigan Gov. George Romney predicts he's going to beat fellow Republican presidential rival Richard M. Nixon in the Wisconsin primary—and says he's gaining on Nixon in the New Hampshire contest.

"I expect to win them both," Romney told reporters Tuesday. Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, Democratic presidential candidate, meanwhile, accused President Johnson of "eroding and weakening the structures of government."

And a showdown appeared to be developing between Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., and Republican governors over control of the platform committee at the Republican National Convention.

McCarthy—who is challenging Johnson's Vietnam war policies—said in Madison, Wis., that the President also is blurring the traditional separation between the Supreme Court, Congress and the military.

"The use of the military to defend political policies," McCarthy said, "has been an increasing trend, particularly since the United States became involved on a large scale in Vietnam war."

The GOP platform committee showdown was indicated in a report by Washington Post writer David S. Broder that Republican governors have decided to demand that Pennsylvania Gov. Raymond P. Shafer be named co-chairman.

Dirksen—whom the governors fear would not produce a moderate stand on issues—has indicated he would agree to Shafer as the committee's vice chairman but not as its co-chairman.

No One Hurt, Washington Police Report

Question Witness;
Seek 2 Suspects
In Pre-Dawn Blast

WASHINGTON (AP)—A pre-dawn explosion shook the Soviet Embassy just four blocks from the White House today and President Johnson called the incident a "senseless act."

The White House issued a statement saying a vigorous investigation is underway and "the President has asked that every effort be made to apprehend those responsible."

Press Secretary George Christian said the inquiry was primarily being pressed by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Police and an embassy spokesman reached by telephone, who identified himself as a press attaché, said there were no injuries. The embassy spokesman said most of the staff was at home due to the hour.

Earlier, a newsman reached the embassy by telephone shortly after the 5:52 a.m. blast and an unidentified man said there were injuries. He immediately hung up.

Police also were unable to determine the type of explosive used. It apparently was placed on the concrete ledge of a first-story front window. The ledge was ripped away and an iron grating twisted.

An embassy employee, who refused to give his name, told a newsman at the scene there was heavy damage to an office and lighter damage to an adjacent reception room. He did not say who ordinarily occupied the office.

A State Department spokesman said: "It appears that a bomb was either thrown or planted. There appears to be one witness and possibly two suspects who were not yet apprehended. The State Department has been in touch with Russian Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin expressing regret and offering assistance on background. Present indications are there were no injuries to personnel of the embassy. The damage does not appear to be extensive."

Nat Reed, a maintenance man at the University Club next door, said there was one loud report that shattered windows along the side of the club across a narrow alley.

"It went off like a cannon or something," Reed said.

Police roped off the area and newsmen were not permitted inside the narrow old-style building 16th Street NW.

Panes of glass on several floors of the AFL-CIO Building off Embassy Row at 1125 across the street and windows in other buildings on both sides of the street were shattered.

Police said a man was seen in the area a short time before the blast. There were no confirmed reports of any arrests.

Belgians Face
New Elections

BRUSSELS (AP) — King Baudouin agreed today to dissolution of the Belgian Parliament and new elections in an attempt to end the latest government crisis caused by the perennial Fleming-Walloon dispute.

The king at a meeting with outgoing Premier Paul Van Den Boeynants, asked him to draw up a draft bill revising the constitution and submit it to Parliament as soon as possible.

Approval of this bill will automatically dissolve Parliament, after which elections must be held within 40 days.

South Vietnam Police Arrest Opponents

U.S. Officials
Feel Bad Timing

SAIGON (AP) — National police arrested the militant Buddhist leader Thich Tri Quang today a few hours after arresting two other prominent political opponents of the South Vietnamese government.

U.S. Embassy officials said the arrests were a remarkable case of bad timing since they came shortly before a new anti-Communist front, "The People's Congress for National Salvation," announced that it had succeeded in uniting political friends and foes of the government. The congress is backed by the government.

Associates and friends of all three arrested men are members of the new congress. There was speculation that they might quit because of the surprise arrests.

In addition to the monk Tri Quang, the police arrested Truong Dinh Dzu, who ran a strong second as a peace candidate in last October's presidential election, and Au Truong Thanh, a former economy minister. Thanh also tried to run for president on a peace platform but his ticket was disqualified by the Constituent Assembly for "pro-Communist and pro-neutralist tendencies." Dzu got around that by keeping his peace platform quiet until after the assembly certified his candidacy.

Informed American sources said further arrests of government opponents were "entirely possible." They could not confirm reports that a small number of intellectuals had also been arrested.

New Strategy In Rights Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some Senate backers of President Johnson's civil rights bill, already dealt one serious setback, plan jettisoning an open-housing provision in an effort to salvage the original measure.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he will propose tabling the controversial open-housing section — an amendment to the administration bill—when debate resumes today. Tabling would kill the amendment.

But other supporters of open housing talked of a bid to modify the amendment in hopes it might be made more acceptable to opponents.

Crosswalk Proposals Made

Council Enacts No Legislation

Circleville Council passed no ordinances, received a petition requesting an alley be closed and referred three recommendations made by Mayor Richard Gerhardt to appropriate committees Tuesday.

Heading the list of recommendations was the one prepared by Safety Director Robert Adkins for the mayor on improving the downtown crosswalks.

The estimated cost of Adkins' proposals is $1,293 per crosswalk.

The safety director recommended that traffic lights be hung in both westbound and eastbound lanes of traffic. The lights would be controlled by push button controls installed on poles and each pole would have electrically operated "WALK — DON'T WALK" signs.

THE traffic lights would remain "green" at all times until "the button is pushed. The lights would then change to amber and then to red and remain red for approximately 20 seconds giving pedestrians time to cross the street.

The lights would then automatically change back through the phase to green, permitting the traffic to continue.

He also recommended the crosswalks be straight across the streets instead of at the present angle. The proposed lights would be installed to State Highway Department regulations.

The mayor also recommended that Elsea Inc. be permitted to use the city sanitary sewer on such terms and conditions as are mutually agreeable with council and Elsea Inc. and to permit sewer service to allow the expansion of 170 trailer units.

The mayor and Public Utilities Manager Ervin Leist explained the proposal would not be an overload on existing lines.

In his third recommendation, the mayor asked that a joint mayor-council planning committee for annexation of areas to the city be formed. He proposed the committee be composed of three or more members of council, the Mayor, the service director, the utilities manager and the chairman of the planning and zoning commission.

TWO appointments were announced by Mayor Gerhardt last night. They were Harold Anderson to the city park board and Walter Yamrick to the planning and zoning commission.

The petition to close the alley east of The Herald Building and the Marathon Service Station was referred to the safety committee. The petition was submitted by The Herald to allow for future expansion of the printing plant.

Leist informed council that Roy Hawks, veteran sewer plant operator, had submitted his notice of retirement effective May 15. Leist also noted (Continued on Page 2)

Draft Call Is Issued

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Selective Service Headquarters Wednesday issued a gross induction call for March calling for 3,612 men to report in order to reach a net induction of 2,171 for the month.

Pickaway County's draft call for March has been set at 18 men.

The net call of men for March compares to 1,293 for February this year, and 451 for March of last year, reflecting the stepped up manpower needs.

The induction call by counties: Allen 50, Athens, 29, Auglaize 30, Clinton 10, Defiance 15, Fairfield 50, Fayette 17, Greene 34, Highland 6, Hocking 16, Madison 2, Mercer 17, Paulding 12, Perry 15, Putnam 14, Ross 8, Van Wert 13, Warren 33.

Architect Estimates Remodeling Cost of Children's Home $140,000

Chillicothe architect Gene Swartz told Pickaway County Commissioners and members of the Child Welfare Board Tuesday it would take over $140,000 to remodel the children's home.

The third architect to look at the building since the commissioners were informed it was a fire and health hazard early last summer, Swartz' estimate is the highest presented yet for remodeling.

The other architects were Ralph Crooks of Lancaster and David Adams of Columbus. Both men told commissioners it was economically unfeasible to remodel the home to meet requirements of the state building and health code.

Swartz' estimate did not include repairs to the roof of the 66-year-old building or new furnishings, if needed.

HE also told them there would always be a certain amount of maintenance required for the old building which would not be needed for the new building.

After the rather lengthy session yesterday, the commissioners and Child Welfare Board members appeared no nearer a solution to the problem than they were a year ago when the board asked a ballot for construction of a new home be placed on the ballot for the November election.

The Child Welfare Board members maintained their position that remodeling the present home would be an unsound economy and that the antiquated building, although spacious, would still not meet their needs.

The present temporary certification under which the Children's Home is operating expires Sept. 30. It was granted last year only after commissioners sent a "Statement of Intent" to state child welfare officials indicating that plans were being made to remedy the situation.

Yesterday, Ralph Starkey, executive secretary of the Child Welfare Board, pointed out that building and sanitary codes had been in effect for many years, but had never been rigidly enforced before.

State authorities are now insisting that these codes be followed.

SWARTZ said the remodeling project could be done by stages. He said to meet the fire and health standards, $50,000 would have to be spent in the first stage.

He told the solons that excessive termite damage might be present in the structure and would require additional costs.

He estimated the cost of new floors, new ceiling and new coverings for the walls at $80 to $90,000. Other estimates of specific areas of repair were:

New kitchen, $10,000; fire proof stairway, $8,000; toilet facilities, $14,000; rewiring $10,000; structural repair, $7,500; window repair, $3,000; storm windows, $2,500; new gutters, $3,000.

According to Swartz his recommended repairs would put the old building in A-1 condition.

Ohio Soldier Was Waiting For U.S. Flight When Killed

FREDERICKTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Sgt. William L. "Billy" McMahon's tour of duty was over in Vietnam, and he was standing in line for a plane ticket at a Saigon airport.

The flight was due to take off in a little over an hour for the United States.

McMahon was not on it. The 23-year-old Air Force medic will be buried here this week in his home town.

Before the plane could leave Saigon Sunday, a Viet Cong rocket slammed through the roof of the Tan Son Nhut Airport terminal and exploded.

Of the more than 200 persons in the building, McMahon was the lone fatality. Twenty-one other American military personnel were injured, McMahon was hit in the head by shrapnel and killed.

"He had been in Vietnam one year to the day," his brother, Ronald McMahon, 22, said Tuesday night.

"His last letter was just a short one. He said he was anxious to get home."

McMahon was the son of Mr. and Mrs. William McMahon of this Central Ohio community.

He told his parents in his last letter, received Saturday, about being cited for meritorious service.

"But he wouldn't tell us anything about it," Mrs. McMahon said. "He was going to tell us what happened when he got home. He wasn't the kind that said too much about anything like that."

McMahon had planned ahead what he was going to do when he got home. He had written that he wanted to get a job in accounting and buy a new car.

The McMahons were informed of his death Monday after Mrs. McMahon had spent all morning cleaning his room.

timate of less than $200,000 was arrived at for an 8,000 square foot facility.

THE Child Welfare Board also told the commissioners the problem of caring for the children at the home would be increased greatly during the time the building was being remodeled.

Commissioners pointed out yesterday that money was not available to build a new home. They did say that $54,000 was budgeted for repair to the building this year.

Wayne Hines, commission chairman, told the Child Welfare Board members, "I'm not 100 per cent sure that remodeling is the proper thing to do, but the people I have talked to say fix it."

Lloyd Melvin pointed out that to finance a new building, it would be necessary to place a bond issue on the ballot.

Commissioner Charles Morris voiced the opinion a bond issue would fail. "We might end up with nothing, if we plan to build and the people turn down a bond issue at the election," Morris said.

The Child Welfare Board members believe a levy would pass, especially if the public is made aware of the condition of the Children's Home and the cost of alternatives.

ANOTHER meeting between the board and commissioners is planned in the near future.

Board members present at yesterday's session were Mrs. George Hanman, Mrs. Michael Harrison, Pastor Carl Zehner and Harry Kern.

The home was an old frame structure. Jones lives by himself.

Riot Control Bill Slated For Study

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A major bill to prevent and control riots in Ohio's big cities is in the hands of a Senate Judiciary subcommittee, which may make major changes.

A big line of witnesses picked the bill apart Tuesday during five hours of testimony before Judiciary Chairman Max Baucus. Sen. R. Clinton and members of the full committee.

Then Dennis named the subcommittee headed by Sen. Howard Cook R-1 Toledo and directed it to get to work on the bill. It already has passed the House but must go back there if changed by the Senate.

Generally, the bill sets tough penalties for crimes committed in the course of rioting, defines the offenses of first and second degree rioting, and extends emergency powers to local law enforcement agencies.

Confidence Vote Set by Pearson

OTTAWA (AP) — Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson sought today to prevent his Cabinet's forced resignation with a vote of confidence to offset the defeat of a key tax bill in the House of Commons.

The Conservatives opposed the confidence vote, arguing that the only course open to the minority Liberal government after its defeat Monday was to call a general election. Debate on the government's motion for a vote was expected to continue into next week, a delay which could bring other opposition leaders around to Pearson's view that most Canadians aren't ready for their third general election in less than five years.

Pearson, who cut short a vacation in Jamaica, contended that the 84-82 defeat of the 5 per cent income tax surcharge was accidental and "a hazard of minority government."

The prime minister said such defeats would mean "a lot of elections" if they were regarded as tests of confidence. But he said if he loses the confidence vote, "then of course the government resigns."

The tax bill had been approved on its earlier second reading, and approval on third reading is usually a routine matter. But Monday night some of the Liberal leaders were off campaigning to succeed Pearson, who is retiring in the spring; 46 of the 130 Liberal MPs were absent, and alert opposition members rushed the bill to its final reading and defeat.

Two Injured In Separate Auto Mishaps

Two injury accidents occurred in Pickaway County during the night.

At 10:10 p. m. Tuesday Marilyn Barr, 17, Route 4, was injured in a one-vehicle crash.

Headed south on the East Ringgold-Northern Road, Miss Barr lost control of the car on the snow, struck a culvert and a tree.

The car was demolished. The driver had a laceration of the ear and shoulder injuries. She was treated and released at Berger Hospital for her injuries.

At 12:53 a. m. today, Stephen Lee Greeno, 24, 121½ S. Scioto St., was traveling west on the Ashville Fairfield Road when the lights went out of his car.

He went off the road and struck a utility pole. Upon impact, the car burst into flames. The Ashville-Harrison Volunteer Fire Department put out the blaze.

Greeno had minor head injuries. He escaped before the flames enveloped the automobile.

Both accidents were investigated by Deputy Sheriff Richard Clark of the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department.

Fire Destroys Home in Williamsport

Bill Jones of Williamsport was left homeless when fire destroyed his house and its contents located in the southern end of the village at 4:15 p. m. Tuesday.

The fire is believed to have been caused by a cigarette smoldering in a couch in the home.

The Williamsport Volunteer Fire Department was called to battle the blaze. No estimate of the cost of the fire was made by Warren Wright, Williamsport fire chief.

The home was an old frame structure. Jones lives by himself.

Riot Control Bill Slated For Study

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A major bill to prevent and control riots in Ohio's big cities is in the hands of a Senate Judiciary subcommittee, which may make major changes.

A big line of witnesses picked the bill apart Tuesday during five hours of testimony before Judiciary Chairman Max Dennis R-10 Clinton and members of the full committee.

Then Dennis named the subcommittee headed by Sen. Howard Cook R-1 Toledo and directed it to get to work on the bill. It already has passed the House but must go back there if changed by the Senate.

Ohio Soldier Was Waiting For U.S. Flight When Killed

FREDERICKTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Sgt. William L. "Billy" McMahon's tour of duty was over in Vietnam, and he was standing in line for a plane ticket at a Saigon airport.

The flight was due to take off in a little over an hour for the United States.

McMahon was not on it. The 23-year-old Air Force medic will be buried here this week in his home town.

Before the plane could leave Saigon Sunday, a Viet Cong rocket slammed through the roof of the Tan Son Nhut Air port terminal and exploded.

Of the more than 200 persons in the building, McMahon was the lone fatality. Twenty-one other American military personnel were injured, McMahon was hit in the head by shrapnel and killed.

"He had been in Vietnam one year to the day," his brother, Ronald McMahon, 22, said Tuesday night.

"His last letter was just a short one. He said he was anxious to get home."

McMahon was the son of Mr. and Mrs. William McMahon of this Central Ohio community.

He told his parents in his last letter, received Saturday, about being cited for meritorious service.

"But he wouldn't tell us anything about it," Mrs. McMahon said. "He was going to tell us what happened when he got home. He wasn't the kind that said too much about anything like that."

McMahon had planned ahead what he was going to do when he got home. He had written that he wanted to get a job in accounting and buy a new car.

The McMahon's were informed of his death Monday—after Mrs. McMahon had spent all morning cleaning his room.

Set Up Group To Head LBJ Election Drive

James H. Rowe To Run Johnson's 1968 Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has tapped an old friend, Washington lawyer James H. Rowe Jr., to run his miltail unannounced bid for reelection—a campaign Democratic party sources say will mix television and barnstorming.

Although Johnson has not formally announced his candidacy for a new four-year term, planning at Democratic National Headquarters and at Rowe's Citizens for Johnson-Humphrey is well under way.

A high party source, who declined to be quoted by name, said that the Citizens for Johnson-Humphrey operation, reestablished at the start of the year in an office adjacent to party headquarters, will be in charge of the campaign through the primary stages and probably through the fall.

The source said Rowe heads the entire campaign effort, with major help from Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien and White House aide Marvin Watson. The party's national committee, the source said, will function as a support group to do campaign organizational work.

See No Copper Strike Accord

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Chances appeared bleaker today for any break in the nationwide copper strike after union leaders slapped down a government proposal to get talks moving again in the seven-month-old walkout.

"It looks pretty grim," said strike leader Joseph P. Mokony after his committee representing 26 striking unions rejected Tuesday a federal suggestion that the unions drop their demands for companywide bargaining.

COUNCIL BRIEFS
Councilman Keith Wagner had a tape recorder on his desk last night. He noted he didn't want to be "misquoted" on any statements he made on council floor.

New name plates were affixed to the desks in council chambers.

Mayor Gerhardt reported the proposed "Barr Smoking Ordinance" is under study by the safety director and fire chief. He referred to Noble Barr's suggestion that smoking be prohibited by ordinance in certain types of business establishments.

Last night's gallery at council meeting included former mayor Richard Penn.

David Crawford suggested a study be made of combining the city and county health departments.

Service Director Earl Radcliff asked that councilmen find out what streets needed repairing in their wards so a priority repair list could be established.

Briefly touched upon was a complaint about the location of a catch basin for the north Storm Sewer at Georgia Road and Cedar Heights and the obtaining of right of way essential for the sewer on Atwater Ave.

A representative of CATV was present to ask the council renew the firms franchise for a cable antenna service in Circleville.

OTTAWA (AP) — Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson sought today to prevent his Cabinet's forced resignation with a vote of confidence to offset the defeat of a key tax bill in the House of Commons.

The Conservatives opposed the confidence vote, arguing that the only course open to the minority Liberal government after its defeat Monday was to call a general election. Debate on the government's motion for a vote was expected to continue into next week, a delay which could bring other opposition leaders around to Pearson's view that most Canadians aren't ready for their third general election in less than five years.

Pearson, who cut short a vacation in Jamaica, contended that the 84-82 defeat of the 5 per cent income tax surcharge was accidental and "a hazard of minority government."

The prime minister said such defeats would mean "a lot of elections" if they were regarded as tests of confidence. But he said if he loses the confidence vote, "then of course the government resigns."

The tax bill had been approved on its earlier second reading, and approval on third reading is usually a routine matter. But Monday night some of the Liberal leaders were off campaigning to succeed Pearson, who is retiring in the spring; 46 of the 130 Liberal MPs were absent, and alert opposition members rushed the bill to its final reading and defeat.

than they have ever had," he stated.

When told by Barr that he should have awaited council's recommendation before establishing the service department clerk's office in the city building, the mayor said he did not request council to make a recommendation for sex or location of the clerk.

He further pointed out the clerk of the municipal court, the clerk of the water department, the clerk of the health department and the clerk of the police department were all women.

He emphasized the move was made to provide better service. "I'm not going to do anything I don't have the authority to do," the mayor said.

The mayor ended his reports, and recommendations to council reading a prepared statement, expressing his disappointment over the decision of the service committee not to approve his recommendation that the City Health Department be relocated and expressed pleasure over the decision to review the wage package request for a wage increase in city service department.

He closed his statement saying, that an exchange of ideas will always be encouraged by the administration.

Tonkin Gulf Probe Brings No Feeling of Accord

WASHINGTON (AP) — Weary adversaries after a 7½-hour confrontation, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Sen. J. W. Fulbright still disagreed on the real story of the naval engagement which prompted the first U.S. bombing of North Vietnam.

McNamara issued a 21-page account of the affair, over Fulbright's objection, contending the administration proved conclusively that the U.S. destroyers Maddox and Turner Joy were attacked by North Vietnamese torpedo boats in international waters on Aug. 4, 1964.

Fulbright, the Arkansas Democrat who heads the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said the public statement McNamara issued "does not tell the whole story by any means."

And so the session which ran into Tuesday night produced only fresh controversy over the engagement in the Gulf of Tonkin.

McNamara's session with the committee clearly was a sometimes angry affair. Fulbright said he had urged McNamara not to release his statement, but the secretary had it distributed at the Peago.

In it, McNamara said the U.S. destroyers had in no way provoked attacks by the North Vietnamese, and had not participated in South Vietnam's bombardment of Communist islands in the gulf, assaults which occurred at about the same time.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., said the South Vietnamese used boats supplied by the United States, and contended "North Vietnam had every reason to fear" the U.S. destroyers.

Morse was one of only two senators who voted against the so-called Tonkin Gulf resolution, passed six days after the reported attacks, authorizing President Johnson to take all measures necessary to "prevent further aggression" in the area.

Fulbright was floor manager for the resolution.

The immediate response was a U.S. air raid on North Vietnamese torpedo boat bases.

Morse said nothing he had heard had changed his mind. "I completely disagreed with everything he (McNamara) said today regarding the rationalization the administration tries to give the Tonkin Bay incident," Morse said. And he said he told the defense chief so in those words.

McNamara disclosed publicly for the first time that the Maddox was on an intelligence gathering mission off the North Vietnamese coast.

The Maddox reported being attacked on Aug. 2, two days before the crucial engagement which prompted U.S. retaliation.

"The primary purpose of the Maddox was to observe North Vietnamese naval activity in those waters, in view of the evidence we had of infiltration by sea by North Vietnam into South Vietnam," he said. "We had the undisputed right to do this. In view of our assistance to South Vietnam, such observations were needed."

McNamara said he knows of no claim that the attack on the Maddox on Aug. 2, 1964, did not occur. It was the second reported attack, two days later, which prompted the U.S. response.

"Some uncertainty existed and to this day exists about some of the imprecise details of the attack," McNamara said. "But there should be no uncertainty about the fact that an attack took place."

After the first incident, McNamara said, the U.S. ships were ordered to remain 11 miles from the North Vietnamese coastline, instead of the eight miles ordered on earlier patrols, "hardly indicative of an intent to induce another attack."

The GOP Nomination

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Everywhere you go in the northeastern part of the United States you can find someone saying that "Rocky's going to get it" — meaning that after Romney has bowed out, and Nixon has lost the dove vote on Vietnam, and Reagan has failed to pick up the pieces, Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York will be the Republican choice at Miami Beach for President.

Maybe this is in the cards. But if it comes to pass, it will be next door to a miracle, for it involves cornering most of the favorite sons in addition to taking votes away from Nixon on the one hand, or Reagan on the other. To put it bluntly, the "liberal" (Rocky) must make a big pitch for "moderates" (Nixon followers) and "conservatives" (Reagan men). Either some people are going to have to toss philosophy to the winds, or Rockefeller himself has got to move to the center in a convincing way, which he hardly did when he supported the union in the New York garbage strike. No doubt the necessary shifts could be arranged, the political game being what it is. But the "how" of the arrangement, if it ever materializes, will have Teddy White (who presumably is already at work on his third volume on the making of presidents) taking a Ph.D. in some mighty curious manifestations of psychology in order to understand it all. Some eminently conservative Texan, Californian or Floridian (no names need be mentioned) will have to alter his convictions in exchange for the Vice Presidential spot.

If this column's information is correct, Nixon hasn't got it yet. Nor has anyone else moved to within striking distance of the nomination. The question is whether the Nixonites and the Reaganites (who are closest in philosophical affinity) will come together when the chips are down. If they do, is fifty-one per cent of the convention vote available to a liberal?

It's fascinating to play with the electoral vote blocks that must be put together to make a successful candidate. One theory (Joseph Alsop's) is that if George Wallace runs on a third party ticket, LBJ will automatically win the Presidential vote in a three-cornered contest in the South. It follows from this theory that Rockefeller, as a liberal in good standing with labor, would stand the best chance among the Republicans to get to the White House, for, if you believe the conventional wisdom, "only a liberal" can win in the big city north and east. (My own theory is that the rise of the suburbs is undermining the conventional wisdom here.)

But all this, whether it is good thinking or bad, applies to the November main bout, not to the Republican convention. In this convention the South—which, according to the latest statistics, comprises between a fourth and a third of our total population—will have plenty of power, and it is hard to visualize a Rockefeller deal that would appeal to it. Rocky might easily add Pennsylvania, Michigan, Connecticut and New Jersey to his native New York on the fourth or fifth ballot, but California, Texas, and Florida would only switch for influence—and there's only one Vice Presidential post to offer as trade bait. Ohio could go to Rockefeller if Governor Jim Rhodes remained convinced that Rocky could win, but what about Illinois, which has usually been conservative? Won't Ev Dirksen speak up?

You hear, from the pros, that some of the Nixon support in the many small population states of the south and the west is "lightly" pledged. But, according to the studies of M. Stanton Evans, the Indianapolis editor who specializes in political demography, the west and south grow more and more conservative as their population increases. Moreover, the west and south have been growing faster than the northeast. If the Nixon delegates from the smaller electoral vote states south of the Ohio and west of the Mississippi can be wooed by another candidate on the third or fourth ballot, would they go for Rockefeller or would they go to Reagan?

If I had been George Romney some months ago, I would have begun by courting the west, not the east. Romney, as a Utah man and Michigan governor, could have done this. And if I were Nelson Rockefeller now, I would stop wooing "labor," and start casting sheep's eyes at the conservative — to moderate groups. I can't see how Rockefeller, no matter how he may rate with Gallup while he is keeping his mouth shut, can break into the Nixon-Reagan combined strength without saying or doing something to show that he is not asking conservative and moderates to rat on their deepest convictions.

"We feel the administration's views on Vietnam get plenty of airing on television," the comedian replied. "The Bob Hope Show, for example."

His argument is that Hope, with his Christmas special based on his entertainment tour of Vietnam, gives wide circulation to the hawkish side of the war. Hope and John Wayne are the most vocal of the show business hawks; Wayne recently directed and starred in the first major film about the Vietnam war, "The Green Berets."

Comics Dan Rowan and Dick Martin of "Laugh-in" acknowledge that they are doves on Vietnam and they wear peace emblems on their jackets as proof. They say they think most of the people in the country are for peace.

Dissent from the administration's Vietnam policies is being expressed in film theaters as well. United Artists is releasing "Live for Living," in which Claude Lelouché ("A Man and a Woman") inveighs against the American position in Vietnam. The film was financed by U.S. money and stars Yves Montand and Candice Bergen.

Another American distributor, the Walter Reade Organization, is releasing "Tell Me Lies," a film version of Peter Brooke's London stage play attacking the Vietnam war. The movie features members of the Royal Shakespeare Company, as well as comments by Stokely Carmichael, and clips of the self-mutilation of a Buddhist monk.

On the American entertainment scene, the issue of the Vietnam war has brought the kinds of dissent that celebrities haven't dared for almost 20 years.

During the Depression and war years, show business personalities often lent their names and financial support to causes that were at variance with majority opinion. The ascent of Sen. Joseph McCarthy changed that. Many actors, writers and directors found they were unpopular because their names had been linked by congressional committees or private organizations to causes that proved to be unpopular.

The result was a long period in which entertainment figures refused to engage in any political activity.

In recent years they have been slowly returning to the political arena. The success of George Murphy and Ronald Reagan proved to many actors that political activity should not be precluded because of their profession.

Now the Vietnam war has prompted many performers to speak out in a manner they would not have dared a few years ago.

"I'm just not a political fellow," says actor-director Carl Reiner, "and I've never been politically active before. I never dared, because I saw too many of my friends ruined during the McCarthy era."

"But now I'm taking a position. I'm too disturbed about what might happen in Vietnam to stand by and do nothing."

Last month Reiner acted as emcee for a "Broadway for Peace" benefit at Lincoln Center's Philharmonic Hall in New York City.

The program featured two dovish senators, Gruening of Alaska and Morse of Oregon, plus an assemblage of show business figures: Paul Newman, Joanne Woodward, Harry Belafonte, Barbra Streisand, Tom Smothers, Eli Wallach, Anne Jackson, Leonard Bernstein, Diahann Carroll, Robert Ryan, Tony Randall, etc.

Noting the turnout, Variety quoted an observer: "I don't think I've ever seen so many popular entertainers supporting a minority view."

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Item 1: "Support Our Boys in Canada."

The reference is to Americans who cross the border to dodge the draft. Where does the placard appear? Not in a peace march, but on a network television show, "Laugh-in." It is flashed on the screen so rapidly that most viewers couldn't read it.

Item 2: On the Smothers Brothers Show, Tom and Dick are discussing the offering of London Bridge for sale. Tom says he would like to buy it, and Dick asks what he would do with the bridge.

Tom: I'd give it to President Johnson.

Dick: What for?

Tom: To bridge his credibility gap.

Item 3: Pat Paulsen, avowed noncandidate for president on the Smothers Brothers Show, comments: "As a comedian, I think I could be just as effective as President Johnson." Cut by the CBS censors was his following line: "But I don't think I could run the country as funny."

Item 4: Tommy Smothers, by a curious pattern of cross-pollination, appears on the Rowan and Martin "Laugh-in" and delivers the on-line blackout: "Let's all get behind President Johnson—and push!"

These items offer evidence of the New Dissent that has appeared in the entertainment medium during the past year. Dictionary definition: Dissent—to differ in sentiment or opinion from the majority.

Political satire has been a part of the American entertainment scene from Will Rogers to Bob Hope. Comedy makers from the time of Aristophanes have used those in authority as the butt of their jokes, usually to the glee of those who are governed.

The remarkable aspect of the New Dissent is the availability of mass media. When Harry Belafonte took over the "Tonight" show in place of Johnny Carson this month, he not only sang calypso songs; he also used the NBC program as a forum for his views on Vietnam.

In interviewing Dr. Martin Luther King, Belafonte declared: "All of us here feel very strongly on the war, and we oppose it." The singer added his support of the protest vote for Sen. Eugene McCarthy. No demand for, equal time to register opposing views has been reported.

Recently Tommy Smothers, who opposes President Johnson both on and off the television screen, was asked about the issue of equal time for Democratic loyalists.

IT WAS ONE of those nights not fit for man or beast, but a hard-hearted father sent his son out to herd the sheep with nothing but an old, flickering lamp to guide him. A few hours later, the father found his son fast asleep under a tree, with the lamp extinguished, and awakened him with a solid kick in the rear. Rubbing himself in the appropriate place, the son complained, "It was so cold and dark when my lamp blew out that I surrendered to Morpheus. Do give me a new wick for my lamp." "Nay, nay," his father rebuked him, "and know you this, you sleepyhead. There is no wick for the rested."

What is infantile eczema? Can it be prevented? How is it treated?

This type of skin condition is known as atopic dermatitis. It occurs particularly in infants and almost always is considered to be an allergic reaction.

The word eczema is derived from the Greek meaning "to boil." This is exactly the appearance of the skin that is affected. The face is the most common site, but the under surface of the knees, armpits and buttocks may show the characteristic red, angry appearance.

Itching is frequently severe and distressing. It has been noticed that breastfed infants almost never develop infantile eczema. Cows milk may, therefore, be the offender. Children with this condition frequently show other evidence of allergy.

The skin should be lubricated with the gentlest preparations, creams and lotions in order to avoid further irritation of the sensitive areas.

It takes a great deal of combined effort by the parents and the doctor to find the offending substance and to bring relief from the skin infection and to avoid its recurrence.

Under what circumstances is it necessary to examine the spinal fluid?

The brain and the spinal cord are surrounded by a cushion of protective fluid called cerebrospinal fluid. In normal health this fluid is manufactured in small amounts and is absorbed so that there is a constant amount circulating around the brain and the spinal cord at all times.

Normally the fluid contains sugar, proteins and cells in small quantities. When there is infection (meningitis), or inflammation, the cell count may rise from six to hundreds or even thousands.

A spinal tap can be performed with remarkably little pain or discomfort. When disease of the brain or the spinal cord is suspected, a small amount of fluid is drawn off and immediately sent to the laboratory for intensive study.

Increased or decreased amounts of sugar and cells and a culture of the fluid are exceedingly valuable in the diagnosis and treatment of these diseases.

The spinal fluid pressure is measured as it is withdrawn. This, too, is of special importance for diagnosis. Occasionally, a special dye is inserted in the space that houses the spinal fluid in an effort to locate the possible presence of growths or tumors. There was a time when patients and families would react with tremendous concern when a spinal tap was suggested.

Today there is no need for this concern. It is done quickly and without danger.

The advantages are great when a spinal tap has to be performed. The amount of information is exceedingly valuable.

Exposure to constant noise can do the sensitive hearing mechanism a great injustice. Many factories now protect against it.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Carried to their logical extreme, administration claims that the mass Communist offensive strengthened South Vietnam appear to indicate the allies would be better off if only the enemy attacked more.

Or that Sunday's assaults on the an Son Nhut air base and other areas were good medicine.

Of course, presidential adviser Walt Rostow didn't mean to imply any of these things but his latest assessment of the Viet Cong raids on the cities illustrates how hard the administration is trying to put the best face possible on some difficult circumstances in the war zone.

Rostow, telling newsmen of the briefing he gave to former President Dwight D. Eisenhower the California, said of the recent attacks: "We're in the middle of a battle that is unresolved but from their own documents they failed to achieve their objectives and may have left the South Vietnamese army and government institutions stronger than before the attacks."

Rostow said the enemy actions have driven the South Vietnamese populace "closer to a sense of nationhood than ever before."

Ellsworth Bunker, U.S. ambassador to Saigon, said much the same thing as Rostow in a television appearance Sunday. Bunker said the South Vietnamese army gained confidence in the Jan. 29 fighting.

"I think the people have gained confidence in them," Bunker declared. "There is an indication, I think, that the government has probably a wider support today than it had before the Tet (lunar new year) offensive."

Officials in the Pentagon acknowledge that if the Tet attacks proved anything, it is that the Viet Cong still has the capability to launch damaging attacks on certain cities and installations at the time of their choosing.

These officials also say, however, the enemy loses in two ways in these operations:

—He makes a momentary impact which has propaganda value but no lasting military worth.

—He exposes himself to severe casualty losses while at the same time sparing allied forces the time and risk of seeing him out in search-and-destroy operations.

This view, of course, carries the implication that more severe fighting of the Tet magnitude would hasten an end to the war, and some military officials indeed believe that.

The Pentagon stands by the impressive statistics compiled by the military command in Saigon purporting to show how well the allies fared against the Communists during the Tet attacks and their aftermath.

Between Jan. 29 and Feb. 9, those figures show the enemy lost 27,706 killed, with another 5,019 suspects detained. This compares with an announced total of 2,707 allied dead; 320 U.S.; 1,733 South Vietnamese, and 54 other allied troops.

The military command also lists the capture of 6,298 individual and 1,063 crew-served weapons.

NEW YORK (AP) — The mystery of what is inside a corporate conglomerate is now occupying the investigative skills of investors, federal regulators, acquisition prospects, accountants, competitors. In a way, it's like trying to crack a rock of the same name.

This curiosity wasn't always there. For years these groups stood around while "new" management built conglomerates out of mergers, purchases and takeovers, rolling into one ball scores of products disparate as cat food and lasers.

These new managers have built an image of wizardry. They are clever, daring, hyperactive, disdainful of tradition, profit-minded. Although responsive to their obligations to society, this is not the result of softness.

Their efficiency instead is often ruthless and impersonal. They are able to mix seemingly troublesome combinations of products and personalities and present them to the public as routine words and figures in annual reports.

They are brilliant financiers, either because of native talent or through superior education. About them is electricity, adventure and movement, because they are testing million-dollar theories not in the lab but in the marketplace.

But, critics now wonder just how much of their empires are the result of bookkeeping as opposed to production. As the glitter dulls, those who at first were blinded by soaring sales are taking a new look at the shape of things.

Falling stock prices have a lot to do with the concern.

Through much of the 1960s stock prices have been rising, especially the prices of conglomerate stocks. This permitted the conglomerate to buy out a smaller company almost effortlessly—by offering it stock.

Last year, Mergers & Acquisitions magazine estimates, share exchanges covered about 60 per cent of all transactions. Cash was involved in only 36 per cent of the deals.

Now, however, the market seems to have become more static and investors are asking:

Can conglomerates continue to grow in such a market? Will further acquisitions be postponed until prices rise again?

The suspicion exists that some mergers already have been called off this year because of falling prices. Gulf & Western Industries, for example, suspended its merger talks with Armour.

This slowdown of the stock market has permitted other disturbing problems to come to the fore.

Stockholders, for example, are concerned with how conglomerates report sales and profits. How far should these companies go in breaking down figures by divisions?

Security analysts also are disturbed. Each acquisition generally means less information for them, one less annual report, for the acquired company's figures are blended with those of the purchaser.

Bankers are worried because their loans to conglomerates are made without full knowledge of operations. The Securities and Exchange Commission also has expressed concern, as have certified public accountants.

The questioning has been intensified by an earnings decline at Litton Industries, a decline that was not foreseen by all securities analysts and, for a time, by Litton management itself.

This has caused suspicion about other conglomerates. If earnings can slip at Litton, the "university" which has graduated the men who later helped build other conglomerates, can't they slip also at companies made in Litton's image.

The GOP Nomination

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Everywhere you go in the northeastern part of the United States you can find someone saying that "Rocky's going to get it" — meaning that after Romney has bowed out, and Nixon has lost the dove vote on Vietnam, and Reagan has failed to pick up the pieces, Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York will be the Republican choice at Miami Beach for President.

Maybe this is in the cards. But if it comes to pass, it will be next door to a miracle, for it involves cornering most of the favorite sons in addition to taking votes away from Nixon on the one hand, and Reagan on the other. To put it bluntly, the "liberal" (Rocky) must make a big pitch for "moderates" (Nixon followers) and "conservatives" (Reagan men). Either some people are going to have to toss philosophy to the winds, or Rockefeller himself has got to move to the center in a convincing way, which he hardly did when he supported the union in the New York garbage strike. No doubt the necessary shifts could be arranged, the political game being what it is. But the "how" of the arrangement, if it ever materializes, will have Teddy White (who presumably is already at work on his third volume on the making of presidents) taking a Ph.D. in some mighty curious manifestations of psychology in order to understand it all. Some eminently conservative Texan, Californian or Floridian (no names need be mentioned) will have to alter his convictions in exchange for the Vice Presidential spot.

If this column's information is correct, Nixon hasn't got it yet. Nor has anyone else moved to within striking distance of the nomination. The question is whether the Nixonites and the Reaganites (who are closest in philosophical affinity) will come together when the chips are down. If they do, is fifty-one per cent of the convention vote available to a liberal?

It's fascinating to play with the electoral vote blocks that must be put together to make a successful candidate. One theory (Joseph Alsop's) is that if George Wallace runs on a third party ticket, LBJ will automatically win the Presidential vote in a three-cornered contest in the South. It follows from this theory that Rockefeller, as a liberal in good standing with labor, would stand the best chance among the Republicans to get to the White House, for, if you believe the conventional wisdom, "only a liberal" can win in the big city north and east. (My own theory is that the rise of the suburbs is undermining the conventional wisdom here.)

But all this, whether it is good thinking or bad, applies to the November main bout, not to the Republican convention. In this convention the South—which, according to the latest statistics, comprises between a fourth and a third of our total population—will have plenty of power, and it is hard to visualize a Rockefeller deal that would appeal to it. Rocky might easily add Pennsylvania, Michigan, Connecticut and New Jersey to his native New York on the fourth or fifth ballot, but California, Texas, and Florida would only switch for influence—and there's only one Vice Presidential post to offer as trade bait. Ohio could go to Rockefeller if Governor Jim Rhodes remained convinced that Rocky could win, but what about Illinois, which has usually been conservative? Won't Ev Dirksen speak up?

You hear, from the pros, that some of the Nixon support in the many small population states of the south and the west is "lightly" pledged. But, according to the studies of M. Stanton Evans, the Indianapolis editor who specializes in political demography, the west and south grow more and more conservative as their population increases. Moreover, the west and south have been growing faster than the northeast. If the Nixon delegates from the smaller electoral vote states south of the Ohio and west of the Mississippi can be wooed by another candidate on the third or fourth ballot, would they go for Rockefeller or would they go to Reagan?

If I had been George Romney some months ago, I would have begun by courting the west, not the east. Romney, as a Utah man and Michigan governor, could have done this. And if I were Nelson Rockefeller now, I would stop wooing "labor," and start casting sheep's eyes at the conservative - to moderate groups. I can't see how Rockefeller, no matter how he may rate with Gallup while he is keeping his mouth shut, can break into the Nixon - Reagan combined strength without saying or doing something to show that he is not asking conservative and moderates to rat on their deepest convictions.

Bankers are worried because their loans to conglomerates are made without full knowledge of operations. The Securities and Exchange Commission also has expressed concern, as have certified public accountants.

The questioning has been intensified by an earnings decline at Litton Industries, a decline that was not foreseen by all securities analysts and, for a time, by Litton management itself.

This has caused suspicion about other conglomerates. If earnings can slip at Litton, the "universities" which have graduated the men who later helped build other conglomerates, can't they slip also at companies made in Litton's image.

The Stars and Politics

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Item 1: "Support Our Boys in Canada."

The reference is to Americans who cross the border to dodge the draft. Where does the placard appear? Not in a peace march, but on a network television show, "Laugh-in." It is flashed on the screen so rapidly that most viewers couldn't read it.

Item 2: On the Smothers Brothers Show, Tom and Dick are discussing the offering of London Bridge for sale. Tom says he would like to buy it, and Dick asks what he would do with the bridge.

Tom: I'd give it to President Johnson.

Dick: What for?

Tom: To bridge his credibility gap.

Item 3: Pat Paulsen, avowed noncandidate for president on the Smothers Brothers Show, comments: "As a comedian, I think I could be just as effective as President Johnson." Cut by the CBS censors was his following line: "But I don't think I could run the country as funny."

Item 4: Tommy Smothers, by a curious pattern of cross-pollination, appears on the Rowan and Martin "Laugh-in" and delivers the one-line blackout: "Let's all get behind President Johnson—and push!"

These items offer evidence of the New Dissent that has appeared in the entertainment medium during the past year. Dictionary definition: Dissent—to differ in sentiment or opinion from the majority.

Political satire has been a part of the American entertainment scene from Will Rogers to Bob Hope. Comedy makers from the time of Aristophanes have used those in authority as the butt of their jokes, usually to the glee of those who are governed.

The remarkable aspect of the New Dissent is the availability of mass media. When Harry Belafonte took over the "Tonight" show in place of Johnny Carson this month, he not only sang calypso songs; he also used the NBC program as a forum for his views on Vietnam.

In interviewing Dr. Martin Luther King, Belafonte declared: "All of us here feel very strongly on the war, and we oppose it." The singer added his support of the protest vote for Sen. Eugene McCarthy. No demand for equal time to register opposing views has been reported.

Recently Tommy Smothers, who opposes President Johnson both on and off the television screen, was asked about the issue of equal time for Democratic loyalists.

Negro Tots Put in White Foster Homes in Dayton

By ANN HELLER
Dayton Journal Herald Writer
DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — In some of Dayton's all-white communities and suburbs integration is in its infant stage—literally.

Negro babies are being placed in the homes of white foster parents.

"It's all been done quietly and all in the past 10 months by the Family and Children's Service Agency.

Foster parents are paid to care for babies until they are adopted. It may be a few weeks. It can be for a year.

One foster parent is Mrs. Charles Prass, a blonde young mother with two children of her own, ages six years and four years.

Last week she was also caring for two tiny Negro babies a six weeks old boy and a three months old girl who was a premature baby.

Mrs. Prass has been a foster parent for three years. About a year ago she volunteered to take a child of any race. Since then she has cared for five Negro babies. Sometimes she has had a Negro baby and a white infant at the same time.

Mrs. Prass says she has yet to encounter any difficulty as a result of caring for the Negro babies.

"People are more accepting than you think," she explained. She added that she didn't really consider the neighbors when she made the decision to take in Negro babies.

"You do what you think is right and the neighbors go along," she said.

Occasionally, when Mrs. Prass takes the babies with her shopping or downtown, people turn and stare at her.

"But that's natural curiosity," she said. "It doesn't bother us."

Officials at Family and Children's Service said about one-third of their foster parents have agreed to take children of another race.

There had been one-way integration of the foster homes in the past. White children had been placed in the care of Negro mothers.

Elliott Rubin, director of professional services, said the agency decided to try placing Negro babies in white foster homes last May.

Although agency heads are "excited about the progress of the program," it had obstacles.

A number of white foster parents refused to take Negro children.

The integration of the families is a continuing process as one baby replaces another.

But for the babies, the integration is brief. Nearly all of the babies adopted are taken by parents of their own race.

Laotian Army Post Overrun

Camp 50 Miles From Vientiane

VIETNAME, Laos (AP) — Communist troops have overrun a Laotian Army outpost 50 miles northeast of Vientiane, the government said.

A government spokesman said about three battalions of Communist troops took the government outpost, which was about 12 miles from the town of Paksane, on the Mekong River.

The position fell early Sunday morning after an all-night battle.

The spokesman did not give the size of the government force or the number of casualties.

The announcement came just as the International Control Commission for Laos was preparing to leave Wednesday for the southern town of Saravane, where the government claims a large force of North Vietnamese and Pathet Lao are preparing a major attack.

It was still doubtful today if the Polish commissioner would accompany the commission members from Canada and India even though the Laotian premier Prince Souvanna Phouma, asked the ICC to investigate the "grave" situation in Saravane.

Goddard Set To Testify On Drugs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration officials, saying they weren't attempting to silence Dr. James L. Goddard's opposition to President Johnson's LSD-central proposal, an official has been given a go-ahead to testify on Capitol Hill.

Goddard's availability to appear before a Senate panel looking into the LSD proposal was made known Tuesday, one day after it was learned he was kept from testifying at a scheduled Monday hearing.

Goddard, food and drug commissioner, has declined to discuss the issue with newsmen. But he previously told Congress he doesn't believe in making possession of LSD a federal crime.

Johnson has asked Congress to make possession of the powerful hallucination a misdemeanor, punishable by up to a year in jail.

McCarthy May Deal HHH Heavy Blow in Minnesota

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Rebellious Democrats backing Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy for president are working to deal President Johnson an embarrassing political defeat on Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's home ground two weeks from today. Administration loyalists frankly admit they're worried.

"The doves can conceivably take Minneapolis," said Richard Moe, state finance director of the Democratic Farmer Labor party. "It will be fairly close either way."

The vice president, said a pro-Humphrey leader, is "definitely concerned, for he considers Minneapolis to be home base." Humphrey began his political career as mayor of this city. McCarthy calls neighboring St. Paul home.

The confrontation will come March 5 at party precinct caucuses—one week before McCarthy and the Johnson-Humphrey forces clash in the New Hampshire preferential primary.

In Minnesota, the precinct caucuses are the grass-roots starting point for selection of national convention delegates. From the precincts, delegates are sent to ward conventions, which choose delegates to the district and state conventions, which in turn name the national delegates.

Because precinct caucuses are open to anyone who voted Democratic in the last election, or promises to do so in the next, party officials fear the meetings will be packed with voters attracted by McCarthy's opposition to the Vietnam war.

Many of these are likely to be college-age voters and that further complicates the problem. One party official pointed out that Humphrey had been unable to devote much attention to the party since he became vice president.

"There are a lot of young people who have come into the party who don't even know Hubert Humphrey," he said.

Lovell Says Space Junk Dangerous

MANCHESTER, England (AP) — Britain's top space watcher says there is a growing risk that debris from peaceful satellites could be mistaken for hostile rockets and lead to "international disaster."

Sir Bernard Lovell, director of the Jodrell Bank Observatory, told a scientific meeting here Monday that 1,291 man-made objects were known to be orbiting the earth, including gloves discarded by astronauts.

If satellite launchings continue at the present rate, Lovell said, there would be nearly 2,500 bits of uncontrolled debris in space ten years from now.

NEW YORK (AP) — "Prescription: Murder," one of NBC's two-hour films made for television, brightened its Tuesday night corner with Hitchcock-style story of an apparently foolproof scheme for homicide that fell apart.

It was the story of a successful psychiatrist who, tired of his wife, laid an elaborate plot to get rid of her.

The doctor and a woman patient who was in love with him made the arrangements. She dressed and made up to look like his wife. He told the wife that they were off on a short-notice holiday in Mexico. Then, about to leave, he strangled her, left her for dead, simulated a burglary and met his disguised accomplice.

The pair staged a quarrel on the plane before take-off and she stormed off. The doctor went on alone and after getting rid of some evidence, returned to face the sad news.

It seemed a perfect crime, but Lieutenant Columbo was not satisfied, suspected the doctor immediately, and used psychology to trap the expert in human behavior. Up until the final event that turned the trick—a shop worn device that was not up to the rest of the show—it was a highly entertaining suspense tale.

Gene Barry turned in a nicely chilling performance as a cool, arrogant killer who was finally tripped by his own ego. Peter Falk as the very apologetic and persistent cop, developed an interesting character. The producers are undoubtedly interested in spinning Flak's cop off on a series, and since we haven't had cigar-chewing, baggy-suited arm of the law around for years, it might work out.

Ticket Envelopes Mailed For 'High Fever Follies'

Members of the patron committee for Berger Hospital Guilds' production of "High Fever Follies" have been busy preparing and mailing letters to potential patrons of the show, scheduled for March 28, 29 and 30.

With this phase of their work nearly completed, committee members noted that anyone who has not received a letter may purchase patron tickets by contacting a member of the committee.

Reservations are also available by mailing your request to General Guild Follies "68", P.O. Box 1968, Circleville, Ohio 43113.

A list of the patrons will be included in the program. Mrs. Hedges said that due to a program printing deadline of Feb. 28, that the tickets, which are reserved seats, should be purchased early. Patron tickets will be mailed before regular sales begin.

The upcoming variety show will be held in the Circleville High School Auditorium. Proceeds will be used for the benefit of Berger Hospital.

As a result of the profits from previous Follies and other monies contributed by the guilds, five rooms were completely remodeled and refurbished, giving the hospital 11 more patient beds. The cost of this was $9,250.49.

Other guild gifts to the hospital have included an operating room light, two emergency room lights, bed rails and a warming basin for surgery. The cost of these items came to almost $2,000.

Dear Abby:

Valentine's Gift Leads to Trouble

DEAR ABBY: My husband (45 years old) came home with a Valentine's gift from a 35-year-old single girl at work. It was a T-shirt of the best quality. With it she enclosed a little note telling him to get with it that sleeveless under shirts were out, and that real sharp guys wore T-shirts instead.

The very next day my husband went out and bought himself a complete supply of T-shirts and asked me if I knew someone who could use his old sleeveless undershirts as he was discarding them.

Now he wears the kind of undershirts the girl at the office recommended. How do you like that!

HIS WIFE
DEAR WIFE: I don't know what this girl sees in your husband, but she obviously sees through him. Since an undergarment as a "Valentine" hardly qualifies as a practical joke, perhaps you should regard it as a warning flag.

DEAR ABBY: I am 20 years old and work in a large office. When I was younger I fell down and broke my nose, and have always wanted to have it operated on to make it prettier.

The doctor says I will have to be in the hospital for a week, and it will take about three weeks more before all the black and blue marks and swelling disappear completely. This means a whole month away from work.

My problem is that I don't want anyone at the office to know why I am going to be gone for a month, but I have insurance here at work that will take care of part of the expense, so I will have to let them know. How can I keep my secret!

DEAR WORRIED: Since you're sensitive about it, tell them at work that you are going into the hospital for some "corrective surgery". . . and don't wait around for further questioning. When you return, the improvement will be obvious, but don't be embarrassed. Cosmetic surgery is nothing to be ashamed of.

DEAR ABBY: That letter from the mother whose adolescent son was "embarrassed" because he had to take a lamp treatment, naked, in the presence of a "young girl" made me see red.

The mother said her son was 17 and the girl couldn't have been much older. Well, she had to be at least 21 to be a nurse.

These people who think nurses and doctors take a personal interest in their patients make me sick.

I am a registered nurse and I'll never forget the time I had to perform a personal service for an elderly gentleman because no orderly was available. The man shouted, "I don't want no WOMAN in here." I called my superior in and she said, "Simmer down, Dad, we are not WOMEN, we are nurses!"

Net Worth Of Nixon $250,000

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard M. Nixon says he has been earning about $200,000 a year income in recent years and currently is worth about $250,000.

Look magazine says in an article by Fletcher Knebel in this week's issue that the former vice president supplied the figures and allowed him to examine photostats of his tax returns for the years 1963 through 1966. They showed an average gross income of $200,000 a year. Knebel said, with $60,000 a year in federal and state taxes an average of $12,000 a year in charitable contributions.

Last November, Look reported that Michigan Gov. George Romney and his wife earned nearly $3 million from 1955 through 1966—an average of about $250,000 a year. Romney's income, Look said, actually ranged from a high of $661,427 in 1960, when he was president of American Motors, to a low of $78,483 in 1966.

Nixon reported to him, Knebel wrote, "that his net worth when he left government in 1961 was $8,000. His net worth on a cost basis increased to $250,000 as of early this year."

Cook Advocates More Police Training

By SEPHEN H. MILLER Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Two years ago, they put burly former State Patrol chief Anson B. Cook in a Statehouse basement office and told him to worry about Ohio policemen's training.

As director of the Ohio Peace Officer Training Council, he's still at it, but in posher quarters and with ideas to match the surroundings.

Among them: Doubling or tripling the 120 hours' minimum police training required by the state and setting up a central police academy to replace do-it-yourself training programs now used by all departments.

"We're still crawling on our knees just getting started," says Cook, who was a 30-year State Patrol veteran before taking his council job.

"Just getting started" has involved trying to enforce standards with little more than pocket money, no authorization to provide training of its own and be sure of what local officials are doing about training their own men.

The council also is a study group whose fortunes have risen with the rise of crime as a political issue. Cook and his tiny full-time crew have moved from their basement office into new quarters across the street with Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe's new criminal division.

Friendly relations have been established with Ohio's new crime commission and last year the council won a $35,000 federal grant to pay for training evaluations and recommendations by the prestigious Battelle Memorial Institute in Columbus.

The police academy and extended training are among the ideas being bootstrapped around by the council, the commission and Battelle's analysts.

"People come to all of us and say we should take some responsibility for providing this training we require," Cook says.

As it is, some 2,000 men a year are trained by local agencies using local officers and local funds. The state provides nothing but standards and the threat to revoke certification if local programs aren't up to the minimum.

Large cities like Dayton and Cleveland provide more than five times the training required by the state, while smaller communities often scrape to maintain a police force, using minimally trained officers to instruct rookies.

What appears likely to emerge from the Battelle studies and other projects is a central academy which would assure about twice as much training for at least smaller communities.

Cook says an academy modeled on that of the Ohio Highway Patrol ran similar institutions in other states could provide qualified instruction for several cycles of trainees each year.

The academy proposal now is being evaluated by the crime commission, with help from the council.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Valentine's Gift Leads to Trouble

DEAR ABBY: My husband (45 years old) came home with a Valentine's gift from a 35-year-old single girl at work. It was a T-shirt of the best quality. With it she enclosed a little note telling him to get with it that sleeveless under shirts were out, and that real sharp guys wore T-shirts instead.

The very next day my husband went out and bought himself a complete supply of T-shirts and asked me if I knew someone who could use his old sleeveless undershirts as he was discarding them.

Now he wears the kind of undershirts the girl at the office recommended. How do you like that!

And a few years ago I was in the room with the doctor and his male patient who had just come from the recovery room after surgery. His wife was present, too. Then the doctor said to his wife, "Would you please step out!" The wife replied, "If that woman can stay, so can I. I can do anything SHE can do!" Whereupon the doctor handed her a stethoscope and chart and said, "Fine, we're short of help, so will you please check all vital signs every 15 minutes, blood pressure, heart, etc., and request the lab for blood work, check all output and intake, etc." She certainly changed her tune in a hurry.

AN E.N.

HIS WIFE
DEAR WIFE: I don't know what this girl sees in your husband, but she obviously sees through him. Since an undergarment as a "Valentine" hardly qualifies as a practical joke, perhaps you should regard it as a warning flag.

DEAR ABBY: I am 20 years old and work in a large office. When I was younger I fell down and broke my nose, and have always wanted to have it operated on to make it prettier.

The doctor says I will have to be in the hospital for a week, and it will take about three weeks more before all the black and blue marks and swelling disappear completely. This means a whole month away from work.

My problem is that I don't want anyone at the office to know why I am going to be gone for a month, but I have insurance here at work that will take care of part of the expense, so I will have to let them know. How can I keep my secret?

WORRIED
DEAR WORRIED: Since you're sensitive about it, tell them at work that you are going into the hospital for some "corrective surgery". . . and don't wait around for further questioning. When you return, the improvement will be obvious, but don't be embarrassed. Cosmetic surgery is nothing to be ashamed of.

Six Amateur Adventurers Leave on North Pole Trip

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Six amateur adventurers leave today for their overland attempt to reach the North Pole.

Led by Ralph Plaisted, a St. Paul insurance man, the expedition of five Americans and one Canadian hopes to become the first to reach the Pole by surface since Adm. Robert Peary made it in 1909.

Peary made the trip by dog sled. Plaisted and his crew will use snowmobiles.

Plaisted failed to complete the trip last year when his expedition was forced to turn back in May after 38 days, 370 miles from the Pole.

His reason for attempting the difficult and dangerous polar trek a second time is simple: "It's there and the challenge is ours. Even if we fail, we have more satisfaction than those who remain in the gray area—the warm house, the television set of those who never try and can never know success or failure."

Accompanying Plaisted are a pathologist, a geography instructor and three engineers. They are amateur explorers, but they are not inexperienced. In addition to the experience they gained on last year's attempt, they have been training on weekends since December in the frozen muskeg and timber of northern Minnesota.

With Plaisted on the trip will be Donald E. Powell, 40, of St. Paul; Arthur C. Aufderheide, 43, of Duluth; Gerald R. Pitzl, 34, of St. Paul; Jean Luc Bombardier, 29, of Montreal and Walter H. Pederson, 40, of St. Cloud, Minn.

Plaisted said the first expedition was defeated by blizzards and the spring ice breakup.

Since then Plaisted has trimmed the size of his party from eight to six, lightened the load, reduced the number of snowmobiles from eight to four and increased the machine's horsepower from 10 to 16.

The crew hopes to start over the ice cap by March 1 from their base camp at Ward Hunt Island. That would give them a 29-day headstart over last year and they would be 200 miles farther north than last year's start at Eureka, Northwest Territories.

Mr. Jacobs To Speak At High St. School

Fritz Jacobs, superintendent, will be the speaker for the 7:30 p. m. Thursday meeting of the High St. School PTA. He will discuss the current operating system of Circleville Schools.

All parents are urged to attend.

Gives $1 Million

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — New York banker John L. Loeb has contributed $1 million toward a Harvard University fund drive and has given the school an additional $100,000 to endow two fellowships. The $1 million was contributed toward an $11.6-million drive for Harvard's graduate school of design. Loeb is senior partner of Loeb, Rhoades & Co., an international investment banking firm.

NOTICE TO PRINTERS FOR BIDS FOR PRINTING BALLOTS

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Elections of Pickaway County, Ohio, will receive sealed bids up to 4:00 o'clock P. M., on Monday, the 26th day of February 1968, at its office in Circleville, Ohio, for the printing and furnishing of ballots according to the specifications on file in said office.

Bids should be sealed and endorsed "Bid for Printing Ballots" and must be accompanied by a bond of the bidder in a sum double the amount of the bid, with at least two sureties or a surety company, satisfactory to the Board, conditioned upon the faithful performance of the contract for such printing as may be awarded and for the payment of damages by the bidder to the Board of any excess of cost over the bid or bids which the Board may be obliged to pay for such work by reason of the failure of the bidder to complete the contract.

The contract will be let to the lowest responsible bidder in the County.

The Board, however, reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

By order of the Board,
Dated this 19th day of February, 1968.

Podell Wins U.S. Seat

NEW YORK (AP) — Bertram L. Podell, a pro-Johnson Democrat, defeated Melvin Dubin, an avowed peace candidate, and two others Tuesday night in a special election for Congress that was fought over the Vietnam war issue.

Assemblyman Podell, a self-described "100 per cent" supporter of President Johnson, ran about 4 to 3 over party maverick Dubin in the Brooklyn contest.

A reform Democrat, Dubin ran as an independent. He said he would not fight in Vietnam if he were of draft age unless Congress first declared war.

With all 358 election districts reporting, the final unofficial count showed 35,913 for Podell; 2,664 for Dubin; 4,909 for Republican Gerald L. Held and 4,200 for Conservative party candidate Michael V. Ajello.

W.S. Gaud Defends AID Program

By JOSEPH E. MOHBA
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Foreign aid chief William Steen Gaud is taking his lumps but bearing up well, at least in public.

He's undergone a two-week bombardment of charges of scandal and inefficiency in his far-flung, high-spending Agency for International Development.

Yet the lean, salty administrator—in his first interview since the storm season began—still talked with undiminished zeal of worldwide agricultural revolution and the blessings of birth control.

A sex scandal involving AID officials in Belgium? A high-level padded expense account in Washington?

"Foolishness. Just sheer foolishness in both cases. Not viciousness at all," Gaud (rhyme with cloud) told a reporter.

"And anyone who says the whole AID operation is rotten because of these things is talking a lot of damned nonsense."

Is AID morale sagging? "I'm the worst person to ask that," said the 60-year-old AID boss. "They don't all wander in here and tell me they feel like hell."

"And yet it's been a bad two weeks. I can't imagine it hasn't bothered and discouraged them. That's why I gave them that pep talk Monday."

Worker Killed

ZANESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Robert A. Thomas, 60, Gloucester, was killed Tuesday when he fell 25 feet from a bridge support while doing construction work on Interstate 70 west of Zanesville. He was a carpenter and was removing wooden frames from the support.

Gaud had called 800 of AID's top personnel together for a brief "chin-up, let's-get-going" lecture.

As for his own morale, Gaud—who's headed AID for a year and a half and been in it nearly seven—said, "I'm okay. I've had some bad moments in the last two weeks."

"But my real frustration is the lack of public support and understanding of foreign aid. That's the toughest part: Feeling his kind of program is so vital to the future of the world, yet being unable to make the people at large understand this."

Gaud refused to accept speculation that his foreign aid program will be torn apart by Congress because of AID's troubles.

"We're going to have a tough time getting the $2.5 billion we asked for," he acknowledged. "But that would have been true in any case; it always is.

"Maybe I'm a sucker for feeling this way, but I think most of them (congressmen) recognize that we're trying to run his agency well, constantly improving ourselves. Those who like to make a career of kicking us, of course, will certainly have a new pretext for doing so."

Carnation Crop Hurt by Rain

HONOLULU (AP) — The bulk of Hawaii's carnation crop is raised on Maui Island, which has been battered by wind and rain for weeks.

So the Aloha State Lei Sellers Association is importing carnations from the U.S. mainland to meet the demand for Hawaii's famous flower leis. The association reports plumeria and orchids are in short supplies, too.

Old Kentucky Laws Attacked

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Republican and Democratic leaders in the Kentucky House of Representatives joined Tuesday in sponsoring a bill to wipe out many obsolete sections of the state's criminal code.

I would, for example, repeal the ban against selling cigarettes, cigars and refreshments within 1½ miles of a camp meeting.

It also would erase: —A law against appearing on a public highway in a bathing suit.

—A law against grazing cattle on the state Capitol grounds.

—A law against defrauding a livery stable operator.

Six Amateur Adventurers Leave on North Pole Trip

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Six amateur adventurers leave today for their overland attempt to reach the North Pole.

Led by Ralph Plaisted, a St. Paul insurance man, the expedition of five Americans and one Canadian hopes to become the first to reach the Pole by surface since Adm. Robert Peary made it in 1909.

Plaisted made the trip by dog sled. Plaisted and his crew will use snowmobiles.

Plaisted failed to complete the trip last year when his expedition was forced to turn back in May after 38 days, 370 miles from the Pole.

His reason for attempting the difficult and dangerous polar trek a second time is simple: "It's there and the challenge is ours. Even if we fail, we have more satisfaction than those who remain in the gray area—the warm house, the television set of those who never try and can never know success or failure."

Accompanying Plaisted are a pathologist, a geographer, instructor and three engineers. They are amateur explorers, but they are not inexperienced.

In addition to the experience they gained on last year's attempt, they have been training on weekends since December in the frozen muskeg and timber of northern Minnesota.

With Plaisted on the trip will be Donald E. Powellek, 40, of St. Paul; Arthur C. Auderheide, 43, of Duluth; Gerald R. Pitzl, 34, of St. Paul; Jean Luc Bombardier, 29, of Montreal and Walter H. Pederson, 40, of St. Cloud, Minn.

Plaisted said the first expedition was defeated by blizzards and the spring ice breakup.

Since then Plaisted has trimmed the size of his party from eight to six, lightened the load, reduced the number of snowmobiles from eight to four and increased the machine's horsepower from 10 to 16.

The crew hopes to start over the ice cap by March 1 from their base camp at Ward Hunt Island. That would give them a 29-day headstart over last year and they would be 200 miles farther north than last year's start at Eureka, Northwest Territories.

The starting point will leave the expedition a zigzag trip of about 600 miles across the top of the world to the Pole.

Lotte Lehmann Celebrates 80th Birthday

By HOWARD HEYN
Associated Press Writer

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Lotte Lehmann, famed soprano of the golden age of opera, turns 80 this month, and some of the great names in music will help her celebrate.

A concert by the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra and a dinner for 200 will highlight the birthday party Feb. 27.

"I will probably be half-dead the next day," Miss Lehmann said, chuckling, during an interview.

Her careers as a singer, teacher and artist span more than half a century, and she has been one of this city's revered citizens since 1941. Will she retire?

"I couldn't," she replied. "Retirement spoils life. There are always new things—not only music. Many times I have been asked: 'What will you do if you retire?' And I say, 'What will I not do?'"

She has written five books, among them "Midway in My Life," her autobiography up to 1937.

Asked if she intended to bring it up to date, she said: "I am not writing at this time. It is very difficult to pick up a biography after all these years. I don't know if I ever will finish it—I am not sure I should even try."

Invited dinner guests will include such celebrities as tenor Lauritz Melchior, actress Judith Anderson, singer Rose Palmar-Tenser, now with the Metropolitan Opera Guild, and Constance Hope, Miss Lehmann's manager when she came to the United States 38 years ago.

Also invited are Dr. Jan Popper of the University of California at Los Angeles, regional professor of music, and Dr.

Maurice Abrabanel, Salt Lake City, conductor of the Utah Symphony Orchestra.

Conductor Zubin Metha will dedicate to Miss Lehmann the Los Angeles orchestra's concert in Santa Barbara that night. The program will include the final duet and trio from Richard Strauss' "Der Rosenkavalier," the opera in which Miss Lehmann so often sang the role of Marschallin.

Always active, Miss Lehmann is conducting master classes in voice at the College of Creative Arts, University of California at Santa Barbara. During the past month she has shown her latest art work, a series of felt appliques and tapestries. She said the exhibit was a great success.

In the living room of her home hangs her portrait of the late conductor Arturo Toscanini, who regarded her as one of his favorite sopranos.

Born at Perleberg, Germany in 1888 and now a naturalized American, Miss Lehmann's operatic career began in 1910 with small roles in nearby Hamburg. In 1916 she was engaged by the Vienna State Opera, and during that company's golden age became one of its most famous singers.

In 1930 she moved to the Chicago Opera and in 1934 to the Metropolitan Opera in New York. There, in 1946, she retired from opera to devote her talent to recitals, singing German lieder and other songs.

Suddenly, in 1951, she announced at New York's Town Hall that she was leaving the concert stage, to sing no more.

She returned to Santa Barbara and joined the Music Academy of the West, where her fame as a teacher grew rapidly. She stayed there 11 years.

Since 1961 she has spent her time painting, working tapestries, conducting a few master classes and coaching singers.

South Viet Recovery Plans Hurt

Ky Quits Post As Member of Top Committee

By BARRY KRAMER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — The Saigon government's program to repair the vast damage wreaked by the Viet Cong's lunar new year offensive appeared in danger today. Informed sources reported Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky and Maj. Gen. Nguyen Duc Thang had resigned from the National Recovery Committee named to administer the program.

Ky was chairman of the committee and Thang was its chief of staff. The latter is the energetic former boss of the nation's pacification program; U.S. officials consider him one of the best men in the government.

Ky's resignation, reported by a member of Premier Nguyen Van Loc's cabinet, was considered an indication of the inability of Ky and President Nguyen Van Thieu to work together, even under the pressure put on the government by the intensified Communist attacks since the end of January.

Ky reportedly told the committee at a meeting today he was resigning because he was tired of reports saying he was planning to utilize the committee's powers to take over the government from Thieu.

Thieu reportedly told Ky he was satisfied with the work he had done and did not care about the reports. But American sources close to the committee reported Ky was adamant and probably would not attend any more meetings of the group.

Man Sues For Police Records

CLEVELAND (AP)—Cuyahoga Community College Dean David Stevenson has sued Cleveland police for return of fingerprints and other records of his son, who was arrested Jan. 3 while passing out antiwar literature at Cleveland Hopkins Airport.

Dr. Stevenson, dean of arts and sciences at the college, brought the action Monday in common pleas court on behalf of his 19-year-old son, Mark.

Dean Stevenson said the youth was held and questioned for more than 24 hours but was not charged.

The suit names Mayor Carl B. Stokes, Safety Director Joseph F. McManahan, Police Chief Michael J. Blackwell, and others as defendants. Stevenson's petition says the youth was distributing leaflets at the airport without permission of the airport director. The youth then was taken to a police station.

Capt. Jerome C. Poelking, head of the Police Scientific Investigation unit, said the youth probably could have obtained the records without court action. He said records of suspects with no previous police history usually are surrendered on petition to the police chief.

Lotte Lehmann Celebrates 80th Birthday

By HOWARD HEYN
Associated Press Writer
SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Lotte Lehmann, fabled soprano of the golden age of opera, turns 80 this month, and some of the great names in music will help her celebrate.
A concert by the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra and a dinner for 200 will highlight the birthday party Feb. 27.
"I will probably be half-dead the next day," Miss Lehmann said, chuckling, during an interview.
Her careers as a singer, teacher and artist span more than half a century, and she has been one of this city's revered citizens since 1941. Will she retire?
"I couldn't," she replied. "Retirement spoils life. There are always new things—not only music. Many times I have been asked: 'What will you do if you retire?' And I say, 'What will I not do?'"

She has written five books, among them "Midway in My Life," her autobiography up to 1937.
Asked if she intended to bring it up to date, she said: "I am not writing at this time. It is very difficult to pick up a biography after all these years. I don't know if I ever will finish it—I am not sure I should even try."
Invited dinner guests will include such celebrities as tenor Lauritz Melchior, actress Judith Anderson, singer Rose Palmar-Tenser, now with the Metropolitan Opera Guild, and Constance Hope, Miss Lehmann's manager when she came to the United States 38 years ago.
Also invited are Dr. Jan Popper of the University of California at Los Angeles, regional professor of music, and Dr.

Maurice Abrabanel, Salt Lake City, conductor of the Utah Symphony Orchestra.
Conductor Zubin Metha will dedicate to Miss Lehmann the Los Angeles orchestra's concert in Santa Barbara that night. The program will include the final duet and trio from Richard Strauss' "Der Rosenkavalier," the opera in which Miss Lehmann so often sang the role of Marschallin.
Always active, Miss Lehmann is conducting master classes in voice at the College of Creative Arts, University of California at Santa Barbara. During the past month she has shown her latest art work, a series of felt appliques and tapestries. She said the exhibit was a great success.
In the living room of her home hangs her portrait of the late conductor Arturo Toscanini, who regarded her as one of his favorite sopranos.

Born at Perleberg, Germany in 1888 and now a naturalized American, Miss Lehmann's operatic career began in 1910 with small roles in nearby Hamburg. In 1916 she was engaged by the Vienna State Opera, and during that company's golden age became one of its most famous singers.

Survey Finds Changed Attitude By Youth On Church

EDITOR'S NOTE - A recent survey of editors by the Associated Press Managing Editors Association found readers puzzled if not alarmed about the younger generation's standards and beliefs. Some asked whether, in the day of the hippie, churches are losing their importance in the lives of young people. This article answers the question: Is youth participation in church activities declining?

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - When a church official recently stopped a group of Catholic, Protestant and Orthodox college students from celebrating an unconventional, mixed communion service, the students simply moved to another room - and went on with it.

"The times, they are a changing," they sang, most of them seated on the floor around a makeshift altar table, swaying to a guitar beat.

The incident, at a University Christian Movement conference in Cleveland, Ohio indicates the approach that youth today often take toward religion: they go at it in their own fashion or not at all.

"It's part of their rebellion against institutionalism of various kinds," said the Rev. Dr. H. D. Bollinger of Nashville, Tenn., director of Methodist's Department of College and University Religious Life. "They're fed up with the system."

Many of them, with that same show of independence, have abandoned formal religious connections.

This antiradicalism has thrown many church youth organizations into a nosedive. And it is sharply shrinking rolls of church and Sunday School classes.

Officials widely admit that programmed "youth work," as the churches commonly call it, is on the downgrade.

"Participation is declining like mad," said the Rev. John Wood, head of the Department of Youth Ministry of the National Council of Churches, which includes most major Protestant and Orthodox denominations.

"Jesus, Yes Christianity, No" read a sign carried at a student rally at the University of California in Berkeley.

"Never Trust a God Over 30," is the title of a new book by Jewish, Catholic and Protestant chaplains at Columbia University, reflecting the younger generation's attitude.

Paradoxically, however, there is a youthful religious impulse and it is showing up in certain ways more strongly than ever before—in conversational coffee in college courses in religion, in social action, projects and in free-wheeling kinds of worship.

"Edge" is the name of a new Lutheran publication for youths, implying the marginal zone which many of them occupy in relation to the official church.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who says he isn't a presidential candidate, will head a nationwide series of Republican platform hearings arranged by his fellow GOP governors—many of whom want him to run.

The 26 Republican governors announced Monday Rockefeller will head a team of five governors, conducting hearings in late April and early May at Seattle, Wash., Albuquerque, N.M., an as yet undesignated Midwestern city and Washington, D.C.

The stated aim is to secure grass-roots sentiment on what should be written into the platform to be adopted at the Republican National Convention.

The hearings will end less than a month before the May 28 Oregon primary—a primary Rockefeller won in his unsuccessful bid for the 1964 nomination.

Gov. John H. Chafee of Rhode Island, head of the Republican Governors Association said Rockefeller would participate "not as a potential presidential contender but as chairman of the association's policy committee."

Chafee met Monday with Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen and GOP National Chairman Ray C. Bliss to discuss the governors' bid to have Pennsylvania Gov. Raymond P. Shafer become co-chairman with Dirksen of the platform committee.

Chafee didn't succeed but Dirksen has let it be known he wouldn't object to having a governor as vice-chairman.

That nebulous border zone, however, throbs with intellectual-religious inquiry, experimentation and movements, ranging from the hippie "love power" to end meditation to war protests to students touring in the slums.

"This is the questioning generation," said Dr. Martin Mead, a psychologist and Fordham University's vice president for student affairs. They want answers to hard theological questions and they want an ethics of action.

Commented a young man at a recent meeting in Dallas, of the National Council's Christian Education Division: "We would love to be part of what the church says it should be doing. When we see adults doing those things we will happily join them."

"The only praying guy they trust is a praying man on the action front," said the Rev. J. Michael Allen of Episcopal St. Mark's Church-in-the-Bowery on Manhattan's lower East Side, a gathering place of college dropouts.

At a conference of 2,000 Jewish students in New York this month, a Barnard College girl, Martha Greenfield, commented: "You may go to the synagogue for a dance or to pray, but you never consider going there to carry out social action activities."

The Rev. Dr. Henry T. Hetland, of Chicago, head of the National Lutheran Campus Ministry, said current student attitudes seem to be a "reaction against implied tyranny over thought and ethical judgment that seems to get associated with religious institutions."

"Students have pretty much bought the ideas of the new morality and situational ethics," he added.

However, the broadest studies find little change in sexual behavior of students—although they discuss the subject more freely. A 12-year study of behavior patterns at three Eastern and Western colleges found "no decline in student morality."

The Rev. Dr. Robert McAfee Brown, a popular Stanford University professor of religion several times voted by seniors as the most influential faculty member, says, "The emancipation of university students from the cowering conformity of the 1950's is to be understood not as a sign of moral degeneration but of moral health."

Examine the statistics, the opinions, the study reports and you get some contradictory impressions of youth alienation from the church and of fervor for its ideals.

For the last two years, enrollment in Protestant church schools, youth groups and Catholic parochial schools has declined, despite rising population a trend spreading for several years and now involving all the larger denominations.

"It has become general and is reaching serious proportions," said Dr. Lauris Whitman, a minister-sociologist and the National Council's long-time chief statistician.

Coupled with the enrollment downturn, a Gallup survey of church attendance on an average Sunday shows that of young people — between ages 21 and 29—down 7 points to 40 per cent from its 1955 high of 47 per cent, while that of the general adult population is down only 4 points to 45 per cent from its 1955 high of 49.

However, just in the last year, the youth attendance figure has begun to move back up toward the general level, after being even further behind it earlier.

"We probably hit the low point," Mead said, "and are on the way back up."

Teen-age youth arms of the churches, which usually met on Sunday night for discussion and recreation, have been disbanded on a national scale in some denominations. In others, participation is dropping.

For example, in the Luther League of the Lutheran Church in America, participation has dropped 50 per cent in five years, while the population in that age group rose 50 per cent.

The Southern Baptist youth arm, Baptist Training Union, has decreased for three successive years. The Methodist Youth Fellowship also has lost ground.

"But the main change is in the break away from the institutional pattern focused on Sunday night and the church building," said the Rev. Kenneth Mitchell, of Nashville, director of the denomination's youth ministries program.

"It's much less focused on membership and meetings and more on getting involved in community activities."

On the positive side of the picture, college courses on religion—both in the extent of the classes offered and enrollment in them—have spread widely since World War II, and accelerated since 1960.

"The student interest in the study of religion is part of a quiet revolution that has been occurring in American universities in recent years," says Dr. Robert Michaelson, of the University of California at Santa Barbara.

A survey by Dr. Milton D. McLean, of Ohio State University, of 135 public universities and colleges showed 40 of them have departments for majors in religion, while 47 others offer expensive courses in the field.

Two decades ago, such departments in state-run universities and colleges were virtually nonexistent. Now, the courses usually are packed, often with applicants turned away for lack of room. At the University of Wisconsin, students petitioned to get such courses.

Similarly, rated religious visitors on campus—such as Harvard's Rev. Dr. Harvey Cox, Catholicism's Swiss Rev. Hans Kung and Episcopal Bishop James A. Pike—usually out-draw any other sort of speaker.

Dimly lit coffee houses, sponsored by churches shying away from direct evangelism and welcoming agnostics and atheists as well as believers, have proliferated as youth hangouts on and off college campuses.

"It is likely that the coffee house might become within a decade as numerous as Sunday Schools or church suppers," says a National Council study report.

They specialize in wide-open conversation, folk music, art displays, as well as coffee, usually with a chaplain around joining in the talk.

The number of clergymen serving on campuses has risen from about 200 before World War II to a estimated 3,000. Dr. Hetland observes:

"Chaplains are able to keep in direct contact with students, largely because they are thought to be somewhat disengaged from or at least not identified with the establishment."

For all the youthful disaffection from standard church operations, folk liturgies have become a swinging thing on campus, with their guitars, jazz combos and popular ballads revised for the setting.

"Worship attendance geared to student worship is not falling off but climbing," said Dr. Hetland. Chaplains at numerous colleges agree.

Although social-action projects capture much of the religion zeal of modern youth, some observers note a letdown in this thrust, partly out of frustration at slow gains, and a turning to more inner probing.

"Students are asking moral questions with at least the intensity of any time in the past century," said Leon Howell of the University Christian Movement which includes Catholic, Protestant and Orthodox youth.

But their attitudes are jolting church machinery. An upheaval was going on in the Southern Baptist youth department, where professional youth workers were complaining that old-time methods were not being changed fast enough.

Reorganization of the Lutheran Church in America's Youth Commission also was under way with plans to replace at least half of its older members with youths. Already, the first teenager has taken her place—Linda Sharpe, 16, of Haddonfield, N.J.

Catholicism's campus wing was also undergoing major overhaul. Once called "Newman Clubs," the campus units at non-Catholic schools now are simply called part of the "Newman Apostolate" to get away from the notion of a fun-and-games college club.

The Rev. John T. McDonough of Washington, D.C., national director of the Newman Apostolate, said the campus units no longer even keep registration lists.

"Students come and go as they see fit, according to whether they're interested in the particular project that's going on. They'll show up for some special effort and then maybe you won't see them for a semester," he said.

"While there's a certain disenchantment with the church institution, young people today are far more serious minded and asking probing questions about fundamental truths.

"They're facing reality—they're challenging, groping and using their freedom. The very fact that they're questioning is a healthy sign that they're on the road to a more mature kind of faith."

Survey Finds Changed Attitude By Youth On Church

EDITOR'S NOTE — A recent survey of editors by the Associated Press Managing Editors Association found readers puzzled if not alarmed about the younger generation's standards and beliefs. Some asked whether, in the day of the hippie, churches are losing their importance in the lives of young people. This article answers the question: Is youth participation in church activities declining?

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — When a church official recently stopped a group of Catholic, Protestant and Orthodox college students from celebrating an unconventional, mixed communion service, the students simply moved to another room — and went on with it.

"The times, they are a changing," they sang, most of them seated on the floor around a makeshift altar table, swaying to a guitar beat.

The incident, at a University Christian Movement conference in Cleveland, Ohio indicates the approach that youth today often take toward religion; they go at it in their own fashion or not at all.

"It's part of their rebellion against institutionalism of various kinds," said the Rev. Dr. H. D. Bollinger of Nashville, Tenn., director of Methodism's Department of College and University Religious Life. "They're fed up with the system."

Many of them, with that same show of independence, have abandoned formal religious connections.

This antitraditionalism has thrown many church youth organizations into a nosedive. And it is sharply shrinking rolls of church and Sunday School classes.

Officials widely admit that programmed "youth work," as the churches commonly call it, is on the downgrade.

"Participation is declining like mad," said the Rev. John Wood, head of the Department of Youth Ministry of the National Council of Churches, which includes most major Protestant and Orthodox denominations.

"Jesus, Yes Christianity, No" read a sign carried at a student rally at the University of California in Berkeley.

"Never Trust a God Over 30," is the title of a new book by Jewish, Catholic and Protestant chaplains at Columbia University, reflecting the younger generation's attitude.

Paradoxically, however, there is a youthful religious impulse and it is showing up in certain ways more strongly than ever before—in conversational coffee in college courses in religion, in social action, projects and in free-wheeling kinds of worship. "Edge" is the name of a new Lutheran publication for youths, implying the marginal zone which many of them occupy in relation to the official church.

Rocky Heads Platform Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who says he isn't a presidential candidate, will head a nationwide series of Republican platform hearings arranged by his fellow GOP governors—many of whom want him to run.

The 26 Republican governors announced Monday Rockefeller will head a team of five governors, conducting hearings in late April and early May at Seattle, Wash., Albuquerque, N.M., an as-yet undesignated Midwestern city and Washington, D.C.

The stated aim is to secure grass-roots sentiment on what should be written into the platform to be adopted at the Republican National Convention.

The hearings will end less than a month before the May 28 Oregon primary—a primary Rockefeller won in his unsuccessful bid for the 1964 nomination.

Gov. John H. Chafee of Rhode Island, head of the Republican Governors Association said Rockefeller would participate "not as a potential presidential contender but as chairman of the association's policy committee."

Chafee met Monday with Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen and GOP National Chairman Ray C. Bliss to discuss the governors' bid to have Pennsylvania Gov. Raymond P. Shafer become co-chairman with Dirksen of the platform committee.

Chafee didn't succeed but Dirksen has let it be known he wouldn't object to having a governor as vice chairman.

That nebulous border zone, however, throbs with intellectual-religious inquiry, experimentation and movements, ranging from the hippie "love power" to end meditation to war protests to students touring in the slums.

"This is the questioning generation," said Dr. Martin Mead, a psychologist and Fordham University's vice president for student affairs. They want answers to hard theological questions and they want an ethics of action."

Commented a young man at a recent meeting in Dallas, of the National Council's Christian Education Division: "We would love to be part of what the church says it should be doing. When we see adults doing those things we will happily join them."

"The only praying guy they trust is a praying man on the action front," said the Rev. J. Michael Allen of Episcopal St. Mark's Church-in-the-Bowery on Manhattan's lower East Side, a gathering place of college dropouts.

At a conference of 2,000 Jewish students in New York this month, a Barnard College girl, Martha Greenfield, commented: "You may go to the synagogue for a dance or to pray, but you never consider going there to carry out social action activities."

The Rev. Dr. Henry T. Hetland, of Chicago, head of the National Lutheran Campus Ministry, said current student attitudes seem to be a "reaction against implied tyranny over thought and ethical judgment that seems to get associated with religious institutions."

"Students have pretty much bought the ideas of the new morality and situational ethics," he added.

However, the broadest studies find little change in sexual behavior of students—although they discuss the subject more freely. A 12-year study of behavior patterns at three Eastern and Western colleges found "no decline in student morality."

The Rev. Dr. Robert McAfee Brow, a popular Stanford University professor of religion several times voted by seniors as the most influential faculty member, says, "The emancipation of university students from the cowering conformity of the 1950's is to be understood not as a sign of moral degeneration but of moral health."

Examine the statistics, the opinions, the study reports and you get some contradictory impressions of youth alienation from the church and of fervor for its ideals.

For the last two years, enrollment in Protestant church schools, youth groups and Catholic parochial schools has declined, despite rising population a trend spreading for several years and now involving all the larger denominations.

"It has become general and is reaching serious proportions," said Dr. Lauris Whitman, a minister-sociologist and the National Council's long-time chief statistician.

Coupled with the enrollment downturn, a Gallup survey of church attendance on an average Sunday shows that of young people — between ages 21 and 29—down 7 points to 40 per cent from its 1955 high of 47 per cent, while that of the general adult population is down only 4 points to 45 per cent from its 1955 high of 49.

However, just in the last year, the youth attendance figure has begun to move back up toward the general level, after being even further behind it earlier.

"We probably hit the low point," Mead said, "and are on the way back up."

Teen-age youth arms of the churches, which usually met on Sunday night for discussion and recreation, have been disbanded on a national scale in some denominations. In others, participation is dropping.

For example, in the Luther League of the Lutheran Church in America, participation has dropped 50 per cent in five years, while the population in that age group rose 50 per cent.

The Southern Baptist youth arm, Baptist Training Union, has decreased for three successive years. The Methodist Youth Fellowship also has lost ground.

"But the main change is in the break away from the institutional pattern focused on Sunday night and the church building," said the Rev. Kenneth Mitchell, of Nashville, director of the denomination's youth ministries program.

"It's much less focused on membership and meetings and more on getting involved in community activities."

On the positive side of the picture, college courses on religion—both in the extent of the classes offered and enrollment in them—have spread widely since World War II, and accelerated since 1960.

"The student interest in the study of religion is part of a quiet revolution that has been occurring in American universities in recent years," says Dr. Robert Michaelso, of the University of California at Santa Barbara.

A survey by Dr. Milton D. McLean, of Ohio State University, of 135 public universities and colleges showed 40 of them have departments for majors in religion, while 47 others offer expensive courses in the field.

Two decades ago, such departments in state-run universities and colleges were virtually nonexistent. Now, the courses usually are packed, often with applicants turned away for lack of room. At the University of Wisconsin, students petitioned to get such courses.

Similarly, rated religious visitors on campus—such as Harvard's Rev. Dr. Harvey Cox, Catholicism's Swiss Rev. Hans Kung and Episcopal Bishop James A. Pike—usually outdraw any other sort of speaker.

Dimly lit coffee houses, sponsored by churches shying away from direct evangelism and welcoming agnostics and atheists as well as believers, have proliferated as youth hangouts on and off college campuses.

"It is likely that the coffee house might become within a decade as numerous as Sunday Schools or church suppers," says a National Council study report.

They specialize in wide-open conversation, folk music, art displays, as well as coffee, usually with a chaplain around joining in the talk.

The number of clergymen serving on campuses has risen from about 200 before World War II to a estimated 3,000. Dr. Hetland observes:

"Chaplains are able to keep in direct contact with students, largely because they are thought to be somewhat disengaged from or at least not identified with the establishment."

For all the youthful disaffection from standard church operations, folk liturgies have become a swinging thing on campus, with their guitars, jazz combos and popular ballads revised for the setting.

"Worship attendance geared to student worship is not falling off but climbing," said Dr. Hetland. Chaplains at numerous colleges agree.

Although social-action projects capture much of the religion zeal of modern youth, some observers note a letdown in this thrust, partly out of frustration at slow gains, and a turning to more inner probing.

"Students are asking moral questions with at least the intensity of any time in the past century," said Leon Howell of the University Christian Movement which includes Catholic, Protestant and Orthodox youth.

But their attitudes are jolting church machinery. An upheaval was going on in the Southern Baptist youth department, where professional youth workers were complaining that old-time methods were not being changed fast enough.

Reorganization of the Lutheran Church in America's Youth Commission also was under way with plans to replace at least half of its older members with youths. Already, the first teenager has taken her place—Linda Sharpe, 16, of Haddonfield, N.J.

Catholicism's campus wing was also undergoing major overhaul. Once called "Newman Clubs," the campus units at non-Catholic schools now are simply called part of the "Newman Apostolate" to get away from the notion of a fun-and-games college club.

The Rev. John T. McDonough of Washington, D.C., national director of the Newman Apostolate, said the campus units no longer even keep registration lists.

"Students come and go as they see fit, according to whether they're interested in the particular project that's going on. They'll show up for some special effort and then maybe you won't see them for a semester," he said.

"While there's a certain disenchantment with the church institution, young people today are far more serious minded and asking probing questions about fundamental truths.

"They're facing reality—they're challenging, groping and using their freedom. The very fact that they're questioning is a healthy sign that they're on the road to a more mature kind of faith."

Houston, UCLA Clash March 22

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer
You college basketball fans, better circle the date of Friday, March 22.

Assuming that all goes well the eagerly anticipated rematch between Houston and UCLA will take place that night in the semifinals of the NCAA championship tournament at Los Angeles.

The date was set up Tuesday when Houston's unbeaten Cougars, No. 1 in The Associated Press poll, accepted a bid to the NCAA tourney along with eight others, St. Bonaventure, 19-0; St. John's of New York, 16-6; Florida State, 17-5; Marquette, 19-3; Chicago Loyola, 13-6; New Mexico State, 13-4; Boston College 13-7; and either Columbia, 17-3; or Princeton, 17-4, which ever wins the Ivy League crown.

UCLA still has to clinch the Pacific-8 title to qualify for the NCAA along with 13 other automatic conference winners, but the Bruins are heavily favored to do so.

After that the Bruins will have to win the West Regional at Albuquerque, N.M., while Houston has to overcome Chicago Loyola at Salt Lake City, on March 9 and then take the Midwest Regional at Wichita, Kan.

Houston, 23-0, ousted UCLA from the No. 1 ranking by snapping the Bruins' 47-game winning streak 71-69 in January before basketball's record crowd of 52,693 at Houston's Astrodome. Hayes scored 39 points and performed better than Alcindor. UCLA, now second-ranked, hasn't lost since and has a 20-1 mark.

Three independents, Army 18-4, Oklahoma City 17-6 and Fordham 14-6, were named to the other major postseason tourney, the National Invitation in New York, which opens March 14. Army passed up a bid to the NCAA in favor of the NIT.

The remainder of the 14-team NIT team likely will come from the runners-up in the Missouri Valley Conference, Atlantic Coast Conference, Southern Conference and Western Athletic Conference. Duquesne, a hopeful of an NIT invite, having passed up the NCAA.

Duke's Blue Devils, eighth-ranked nationally and the only team in The AP Top Ten to play Tuesday, trimmed Clemson 82-70 on the road for their seventh straight and a 17-3 record. Mike Lewis' 32 points paced Duke

Baseball Players Approve Contracts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Pitchers Gary Peters of the Chicago White Sox, Al Jackson of the New York Mets and Moe Drabowsky of the Baltimore Orioles are among the major league baseball players who came to terms with their clubs Tuesday.

Peters, 16-11 last season with the second best ERA in the American League, was one of three players who signed Chicago contracts. Others were catcher Gerry McNertney and pitcher Bob Priddy.

Jackson, 9-4, last year signed for a reported $30,000 and became the final Met to sign a contract. Manager Gil Hodges begins workouts with the club today.

Drabowsky, a bullpen hero for the Orioles in the 1966 world series and 7-5 with 11 saves last year, also signed for about $30,000. Rookie first baseman Mike Fiore also agreed to terms Tuesday.

Catcher Jerry Zimmerman of the Minnesota Twins signed for about $17,000. The regular catcher for the Twins last year, Zimmerman, who hit only .167, figures to give way to John Roseboro, acquired in a winter trade with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Right-hander George Culver, acquired by Cincinnati in an off-season trade with Cleveland signed his contract Tuesday. The Oakland Athletics signed two of last year's Birmingham farm club players, pitcher George Lauzerique and outfielder Reggie Jackson.

Players still unsigned include pitchers Al Downing and Dooley

Womack of the New York Yankees, outfielder Tony Oliva of the Minnesota Twins, outfielders Frank Robinson and Curt Blefary and infielder Boog Powe of the Baltimore Orioles and outfielders Rusty Staub and Jim Wynn of the Houston Astros.

Dallas shot itself into the American Basketball Association record book and, perhaps more important, into second place in the league's Western Division.

Beating Oakland 148-130 Tuesday night, the Chaparrals topped by two points the BA's team high for a single game, set by Pittsburgh last December.

With Denver losing to Minnesota 119-117, Dallas moved one-half game ahead of the Rockets, when dropped to third place. In the only other ABA game, Pittsburgh beat Anaheim 121-114.

U.S., Russians Meet Friday Night

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—United States' best long jumpers will meet a Russian challenge in the National AAU indoor track and field meet at the Oakland Arena Friday night.

The Russian, Tonu Lepik, surprised with a 25-foot-8½ inch victory over Bob Beamon and others at the recent Los Angeles Times meet. He also won at Seattle.

Lombardi Talks to Press 'In Lieu' of Pro Grid News

NEW YORK (AP) — Vince Lombardi, the retired coach, looks and talks like the same Vince Lombardi who used to crack the whip for the Green Bay Packers.

Lombardi was interviewed by newsmen Tuesday night in the absence of any news from the professional football league meetings.

"I'm in lieu of news," announced Lombardi. Then he proceeded to talk about his new career as a general manager, divorced from coaching responsibilities.

"What are you going to be doing next summer when the Packers start working out," a fellow asked Lombardi.

"I will be very much disappointed if I do not have enough self discipline to stay away," he said.

"Where will you watch the games?"

"From the press box."

Lombardi said the door to his office always will be open to any player who wants to talk with him. He will handle all the contract signing.

"Did the general manager of the Packers take a cut when he quit coaching?" another asked.

"If he did, he probably would still be coaching," said Lombardi.

In answer to recurrent rumors that he eventually will be back in New York, Lombardi said, "I can understand those rumors. I am a New Yorker, and I have a lot of friends here in New York."

"I dare say if somebody said 'I'll give you 40 per cent—or 51 per cent—of a club, I'd have to listen,'" he added facetiously.

"But there is nobody around who is going to do things like that."

Lombardi said he approved of the four divisional setup in the National Football League and had not made up his mind about the ultimate realignment of teams in 1970 when the NFL and the American Football League complete their merger.

As for the players' demands, Lombardi had just one come-what-ever it goes in the form of regular salary or for so much an exhibition game, here is only so much there to take."

In Frank Acton, a 6-7 center, they have height to match that of Logan Elm's 6-8 Royce Woolver.

JOE Hiles and Steve Kinser give the Aces a well balanced scoring attack and add size and strength to the lineup. Other starters are Dan Davis and Randy Poling.

Logan Elm now has a 12-6 record. The Braves have won their last six games, recovering from a mid-season slump in which they lost four out of six games.

The Teays Valley tournament has had its best ever crowds since the sectional system replaced the old county tournaments.

Capacity crowds are expected at all three weekend sessions.

"If he did, he probably would still be coaching," said Lombardi.

In answer to recurrent rumors that he eventually will be back in New York, Lombardi said, "I can understand those rumors. I am a New Yorker, and I have a lot of friends here in New York."

"I dare say if somebody said 'I'll give you 40 per cent—or 51 per cent—of a club, I'd have to listen,' he added facetiously. "But there is nobody around who is going to do things like that."

Lombardi said he approved of the four divisional setup in the National Football League and had not made up his mind about the ultimate realignment of teams in 1970 when the NFL and the American Football League complete their merger.

As for the players' demands, Lombardi had just one come- come whether it goes in the form of regular salary or for so much an exhibition game, here is only so much there to take."

Houston, UCLA Clash March 22

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer
You college basketball fans, better circle the date of Friday, March 22.

Assuming that all goes well the eagerly anticipated rematch between Houston and UCLA will take place that night in the semifinals of the NCAA championship tournament at Los Angeles along with another duel between the Big E. Elvin Hayes of Houston, and Mr. A. Lew Alcindor of UCLA.

The date was set up Tuesday when Houston's unbeaten Cougars, No. 1 in The Associated Press poll, accepted a bid to the NCAA tourney along with eight others. St. Bonaventure, 19-0; St. John's of New York, 16-6; Florida State, 17-5; Marquette, 19-3; Chicago Loyola, 13-6; New Mexico State, 18-4; Boston College 13-7; and either Columbia, 17-3; or Princeton, 17-4, which ever wins the Ivy League crown.

UCLA still has to clinch the Pacific-8 title to qualify for the NCAA along with 13 other automatic conference winners, but the Bruins are heavily favored to do so.

After that the Bruins will have to win the West Regional at Albuquerque, N.M., while Houston has to overcome Chicago Loyola at Salt Lake City, on March 9 and then take the Midwest Regional at Wichita, Kan. Houston, 23-0, ousted UCLA from the No. 1 ranking by snapping the Bruins' 47-game winning streak 71-69 in January before basketball's record crowd of 52,993 at Houston's Astrodome. Hayes scored 39 points and performed better than Alcindor. UCLA, now second-ranked, hasn't lost since and has a 20-1 mark.

Three independents, Army 18-4, Oklahoma City 17-6 and Fordham 14-6, were named to the other major postseason tourney, the National Invitation in New York, which opens March 14. Army passed up a bid to the NCAA in favor of the NIT.

The remainder of the 14-team NIT team likely will come from the runners-up in the Missouri Valley Conference, Atlantic Coast Conference, Southern Conference and Western Athletic Conference. Duquesne, a hopeful of an NIT invite, having passed up the NCAA.

Duke's Blue Devils, eighth-ranked nationally and the only team in The AP Top Ten to play Tuesday, trimmed Clemson 82-70 on the road for their seventh straight and a 17-3 record. Mike Lewis' 32 points paced Duke which will compete in the NCAA if it wins the ACC crown or in the NIT if it finishes runnerup in the ACC.

St. John's, the one certain tournament bound team in action, also won on the road, but just barely. The Redman edged Massachusetts 55-53 at Amherst, Mass., on Jim Smyth's 30-foot shot in the last second.

Kansas, tightened its hold on first place in the Big Eight by defeating Missouri on the road 74-65. In still another road triumph, Tennessee downed Georgia Tech 71-69 in two overtimes. Tom Boerwinkle's two free throws after time had run out in the second overtime won for he Vols.

Rick Mount, Purdue's soph star, scored 38 points and led to the Boilermakers to an 86-73 victory over Iowa that tightened the Big Ten race. Ohio State, also playing at home, beat Northwestern 87-67 and regained first place at 7-3 compared to 6-3 for Iowa and Purdue.

Southern Methodist threw the Southwest Conference race into a triple tie by defeating Baylor on the road 70-63. Baylor now is tied for first at 7-4 with Texas A&M and Texas. Texas A&M gained the tie by defeating Arkansas 71-67 at home. Texas, also playing at home, moved up by downing Texas Tech 79-69.

OSU Regains Lead On Big 10 Circuit

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ohio State stormed to an 87-67 victory over Northwestern Tuesday night, and with an assist from Purdue, the Buckeyes regained first place in the Big Ten basketball race.

The Buckeyes' victory came in familiar St. John Arena in Columbus, where Ohio State is unbeaten in league play.

Purdue beat Iowa at home 86-73, knocking the Hawkeyes out of first place into a second-place tie with the Boilermakers both with 6-3 marks. Ohio State 7-3, took back the conference lead it lost last week after two road defeats.

But the lead could change again Saturday when Ohio State travels to Purdue for a rematch. Ohio State earlier trounced Purdue, the preseason favorite, 108-80 in Columbus.

Buckeye Coach Fred Taylor gambled for the Northwestern game, but got a big payoff. New starters Ed Smith and Bruce Schnabel responded well. Smith, in his first start, scored 15 points and grabbed seven rebounds. Schnabel, who had made only one previous start, chipped in 10 points.

Led by Bill Hosket, Ohio State jumped out front quickly, tying 13 of their first 17 shots from the field. They finished with a torrid 54.8 shooting percentage compared to Northwestern's 30 per cent.

Hosket topped all scorers with 23 points, but got plenty of help from Dave Sorenson with 22.

Elsewhere in Ohio Denison's Big Red clinched a tie for a first place finish in the Ohio Conference, beating Wooster 87-

82 in overtime. Charlie Claggett poured in 31 points for Denison, whose Phil Wince tallied six points in the overtime. Denison concluded its conference play and leads the 14-team league with an 11-2 record. Baldwin-Wallace, 9-2, can tie the Big Red by winning both of its remaining OC games this week.

In other OC games Tuesday, Muskingum snapped an eight-game losing streak by nipping Capital 73-72, and Wittenberg ever trailed in beating Oberlin 68-45.

Don Husted scored Muskingum's winning basket with 18 seconds left and ended with 22 points. Tim Thomas with 19 points and Dan Starkey with 16 paced Wittenberg.

Earle Higgins threw in 31 points in leading Eastern Michigan past Akron 77-63. Bob Smith was high for Ankrum with 17 points.

In other games, Wilmington edged Anderson, Ind., 76-75 on a last second goal by Larry Hefflin; Youngstown beat Gannon, Pa., 85-83 on Bob Patton's goal with two seconds left; Buffalo handed Defiance, The Mid Ohio Conference leader, a 76-70 defeat, and Rio Grande lost in the first round of the Kentucky Intercollegiate Athletic Conference tournament to Union 99-86.

Walt Piatkowski Player of Week

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Big Walt Piatkowski, who has guided Bowling Green into first place in the Mid-American Conference, is the league's Basketball Player of the Week.

The 6-foot-8 senior led the Falcons into the MAC's top spot last week with key performances in victories over Toledo and Western Michigan, scoring 60 points.

Culver Inks Pact

CINCINNATI (AP)—George Culver, who won seven and lost three with the Cleveland Indians last year, signed his 1968 contract with the Cincinnati Reds Tuesday.

Sal Olivas of New Mexico State led the major college football players in total offense with 2,184 yards.

Dick Barnett Leads Knicks Over SF

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Barnett was given the game ball Tuesday night and then had to give it back when Bill Bradley said he wouldn't play without it.

Barnett obviously did not mind. He simply continued dropping the ball in the basket and after shooting the New York Knicks to a 115-112 overtime victory over San Francisco in a National Basketball Association doubleheader at the Madison Square Garden, he reclaimed his basketball and went home.

Barnett's willingness to overlook such callous gift-giving came after the Chicago Bulls had staged a stirring rally for a regulation tie and then topped Detroit 124-121 in another overtime thriller.

In other games, Philadelphia outscored Seattle 30-2 in a torrid fourth quarter en route to a 140-108 rout and Earl Monroe shot Baltimore to a 127-115 triumph over St. Louis in a doubleheader at Philadelphia's Spectrum. Boston walloped Cincinnati 126-110 in an afternoon game in Boston.

Carberry Successor To Ritter

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI has appointed Bishop John J. Carberry of Columbus, Ohio, to succeed the late Joseph Cardinal Ritter as archbishop of St. Louis, the Vatican announced today.

The 63-year-old native of Brooklyn has been bishop of Columbus since Jan. 16, 1965. Cardinal Ritter died last June 10.

The archbishop of St. Louis is traditionally a cardinal, and Bishop Carberry is expected to be elevated at the Pope's next consistory to create new prelates of the church.

Nine cardinals have died since the last consistory last June, and there is speculation that the Pope will call another one before Easter, April 14.

It is expected at the Vatican that by then he will have named a new archbishop of New York to succeed the late Francis Cardinal Spellman and that this prelate also will get his red hat.

Baseball Player Seeks Office

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Wilmer "Vinegar Bend" Mizell, former pitcher with the St. Louis Cardinals, filed Tuesday for the Republican nomination to Congress in North Carolina's 5th District.

He will oppose Dr. Eldon D. Nielson, a Winston-Salem research scientist in the May 4 primary.

Bitter Battle at Hue Still Far from Over

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Marine jets returned to the battle for Hue today for the first time in five days as one of the Vietnam war's most savage and sustained campaigns went into its fourth week.

The Marine pilots sent bombs, rockets and napalm into Communist troops dug in among a row of shanties just outside the south wall of the Hue Citadel.

AP Correspondent George McArthur reported that the bombs scored a direct hit on a Communist ammunition dump touching off a spectacular flash and a fire that cast a pall of black smoke over the city. Marines on the south bank of the Perfume River, across from the 15-yard strip bombed by the jets, could see figures running from the area and opened fire with their machine guns. They cut down a dozen small groups.

Earlier the Marines on the south side of the river broadcast warnings across telling all civilians to leave the area and the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong holding out in the former Imperial Palace to surrender or die.

When no white flag went up, the Marines sent artillery barges slamming into the Communist strongpoints and sprayed them with tear gas. This touched off a heavy fire-fight that echoed all over the coastal city 400 miles northeast of Saigon.

Lt. Gen. Robert Cushman Jr., commander of the U.S. Marines in Vietnam, said the battle in Hue could go on for several more weeks because the enemy still was able to send in fresh supplies and troops.

Cushman told newsmen in Da Nang one Marine battalion had suffered serious casualties in the fighting and would be replaced. He estimated that the Communist had put an entire division into the Hue battle and said they are committed to fight to the last man. The enemy is believed to be moving in fresh men and supplies through gates they control in the northwest and southwest corners of the Citadel and through tunnels and sewers beneath the east wall.

Cushman said soldiers of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division were attacking a fortified village on the outskirts of Hue along the Communists' supply route and, once it falls, the soldiers would move to seal off the last enemy approach to Hue.

The Communists still hold all of the Citadel's south wall, much of the west wall, and control sections south, east and west of the Citadel, despite the efforts of 4,000 allied troops to dislodge them.

U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese troops have reported killing 3,000 enemy soldiers since the Communists seized most of Hue Jan. 31 in the lunar new year's offensive against 35 cities and towns. About 100 Marines have been killed and many more wounded. Lt. Gen. Hoang Xuan La, commander of the 1st Corps area, said 400 of his troops had been killed and 700 wounded in and around the Citadel.

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI has appointed Bishop John J. Carberry of Columbus, Ohio, to succeed the late Joseph Cardinal Ritter as archbishop of St. Louis, the Vatican announced today.

The 63-year-old native of Brooklyn has been bishop of Columbus since Jan. 16, 1965. Cardinal Ritter died last June 10.

The archbishop of St. Louis is traditionally a cardinal, and Bishop Carberry is expected to be elevated at the Pope's next consistory to create new princes of the church.

Nine cardinals have died since the last consistory last June, and there is speculation that the Pope will call another one before Easter, April 14.

It is expected at the Vatican that by then he will have named a new archbishop of New York to succeed the late Francis Cardinal Spellman and that this prelate also will get his red hat.

Bitter Battle at Hue Still Far from Over

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Marine jets returned to the battle for Hue today for the first time in five days as one of the Vietnam war's most savage and sustained campaigns went into its fourth week.

The Marine pilots sent bombs, rockets and napalm into Communist troops dug in among a row of shanties just outside the south wall of the Hue Citadel.

AP Correspondent George McArthur reported that the bombs scored a direct hit on a Communist ammunition dump touching off a spectacular flash and a fire that cast a pall of black smoke over the city.

Marines on the south bank of the Perfume River, across from the 15-yard strip bombed by the jets, could see figures running from the area and opened fire with their machine guns. They cut down a dozen small groups.

Earlier the Marines on the south side of the river broadcast warnings across telling all civilians to leave the area and the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong holding out in the former Imperial Palace to surrender or die.

When no white flag went up, the Marines sent artillery barges slamming into the Communist strongpoints and sprayed them with tear gas. This touched off a heavy fire fight that echoed all over the coastal city 400 miles northeast of Saigon.

Lt. Gen. Robert Cushman Jr., commander of the U.S. Marines in Vietnam, said the battle in Hue could go on for several more weeks because the enemy still was able to send in fresh supplies and troops.

Cushman told newsmen in Da Nang one Marine battalion had suffered serious casualties in the fighting and would be replaced.

He estimated that the Communists had put an entire division into the Hue battle and said they are committed to fight to the last man. The enemy is believed to be moving in fresh men and supplies through gates they control in the northwest and southwest corners of the Citadel and through tunnels and sewers beneath the east wall.

Cushman said soldiers of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division were attacking a fortified village on the outskirts of Hue along the Communists' supply route and, once it falls, the soldiers would move to seal off the last enemy approach to Hue.

The Communists still hold all of the Citadel's south wall, much of the west wall, and control sections south, east and west of the Citadel, despite the efforts of 4,000 allied troops to dislodge them.

U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese troops have reported killing 3,000 enemy soldiers since the Communists seized
